Headless Butterflies
Mexico's Crisis
Wine, Meat, Old Age
$1,000,000 a Year

(Copyright, 1926, by the Star Company.)

THE ABBE CAMBOUE, French missionary in Madagascar, a learned biologist, cuts off heads of butterflies scientifically. Decapitated, they outlive normal butterflies, because they take less exercise and their vitality lasts longer. Butterflies eat nothing; their eating is done as caterpillars, and they live a gay life on their reserve strength.

THE GOOD Abbe Camboue might come here and try experiments with a few of our social butterflies. They would at least THINK just as well with their heads cut off, and if the operation were successful it would be interesting, enlightening, and good food, now wasted, would be saved.

IN MEXICO, thousands crowd the churches to attend short masses, to be held every thirty minutes until August 1, when new laws, forbidding religious teaching in schools, and confiscating church property, go into effect.

The proposed boycott of luxuries and other commercial enterprises by indignant Catholics, President Calles answers by arresting and jailing leaders of the boycott movement. It is not believed that President Calles will proceed as far as imprisonment of the archbishop.

THE CRUSH at the ancient cathedral of Mexico City is great, parents taking advantage of what may be the last opportunity to have their children baptised or confirmed. Outside the cathedral, five thousand fathers and mothers, with babies in their arms, await their turn.

News dispatches describe the pathetic deaths of four babies.

PRIEST ATTACKER IS LYNCHED BY A MOB IN MEXICAN TOWN

Washington, July 28.—Concern was felt in official and diplomatic circles over the reported lynching of the mayor of [illegible]chistan, State of Zacatecas, by villagers, after he had at[illegible] Catholic priest. Further details of the reported lynching, [illegible] was said to have been by hanging, are awaited anxiously. The report said the mayor threatened the priest with a pistol, fired at him, and ordered him arrested, after an argument in the mayor's office. Umberto Cervantes is the mayor.

San Antonio, Tex., July 28 (Universal).—Hundreds of priests and nuns in flight from Mexico have taken refuge in San Antonio and other Texas border cities, it was announced by Bishop A. Drossaerts of this diocese.

Approximately 1,000 sisters of various orders are expected to arrive here within the next few days, he announced.

Lines in the clash between the Mexican government and the Episcopate of the Catholic Church in Mexico are becoming more closely

"VISION STORK" INFANT AND NOBLE PARENTS

DREAM CHILD MAY BE A LORD

Geoffrey Russell, the mother who says she dreamed him into being, and the Hon. John Hugo Russell, who denied parentage and won a divorce, maintaining they had never lived together as man and wife. The decree was set aside and medical testimony offered that amazed the world. Now the highest English court rules the famous "Dream Baby" is legitimate and may yet succeed to the title of his grandfather, Lord Ampthill.

London, July 28 (I.N.S.) — The Kings Bench Court today declared baby Geoffrey Russell, the "Dream Baby," the legitimate child of the Hon. John Hugo Russell, son of Lord Ampthill and Mrs. Christabel Russell, thus bringing to a conclusion one of the most famous divorce cases in the history of English courts.

Russell petitioned for a divorce from his wife in 1922, charging her with infidelity. Mrs. Russell defended the case and in the course of the trial Russell's attorney denied the paternity of Geoffrey, on behalf of their client, maintaining Russell and his wife had never lived together as man and wife. Mrs. Russell answered with the claim Geoffrey was a "Dream Baby," and

HER OWN BROTHER WAS LOVE ENVOY FROM 'MR. BLANK,' ODA TESTIFIES

Secrets buried in the innermost recesses of the heart of the beautiful Danish girl, Mrs. Oda Pappathanos, were torn from her and exposed before a courtroom crowded with men spectators today as Daniel H. Coakley ruthlessly cross-examined her about an illicit love affair with the "mysterious Mr. Blank," millionaire manufacturer of Maine.

She is suing Coakley for $500,000, claiming that he collected $150,000 from the manufacturer while acting as her attorney, and that he reported to her he got only $6,200.

Under Coakley's questioning, she was forced to admit going to Maine and there having relations with Mr. Blank when she was 16 years old.

After that, Mrs. Pappathanos said, she met him once a week in Boston for a period covering eight or nine months.

She and her brother, Oscar, took a trip to Europe at Mr. Blank's expense before she engaged Coakley to represent her, she admitted, and

SEVERE 2-HOUR QUAKE IS NOTED AT FORDHAM

New York, July 28 (I.N.S.).—A severe earthquake was registered early today on the seismograph at Fordham University.

The temblor, which began at 5:13 a. m. daylight saving time, reached its maximum intensity at 5:58 and continued until 7:10 a. m.

The Rev. J. S. O'Conor, in charge of the station, estimated the centre of the disturbance as about 6,700 miles from New York. He was unable to state the direction.

London, July 28 (I.N.S.).—Earthquakes occurred in Batavia today, according to a Central News message from Amsterdam. No details have been received. Earthquakes in the month caused heavy damage and considerable loss of life.

drawn. Disorders were reported from numerous points south of the Rio Grande.

A general appeal to the citizens of San Antonio and to Catholics throughout the United States to offer assistance to the refugees that will save them from being homeless and facing starvation must be made, Bishop Drossaerts said.

After July 31, Catholic priests will no longer officiate in Mexican churches, under an order issued by the Episcopate, as a protest against the Mexican law which prohibits foreigners from engaging in religious teaching in Mexico.

FEAR FOR BUILDINGS.

Additional distress is felt in Catholic circles because of reports, thus far not substantiated, that the government may take over the church buildings, because the priests have abandoned them, and convert them into schools and libraries or use them for other purposes.

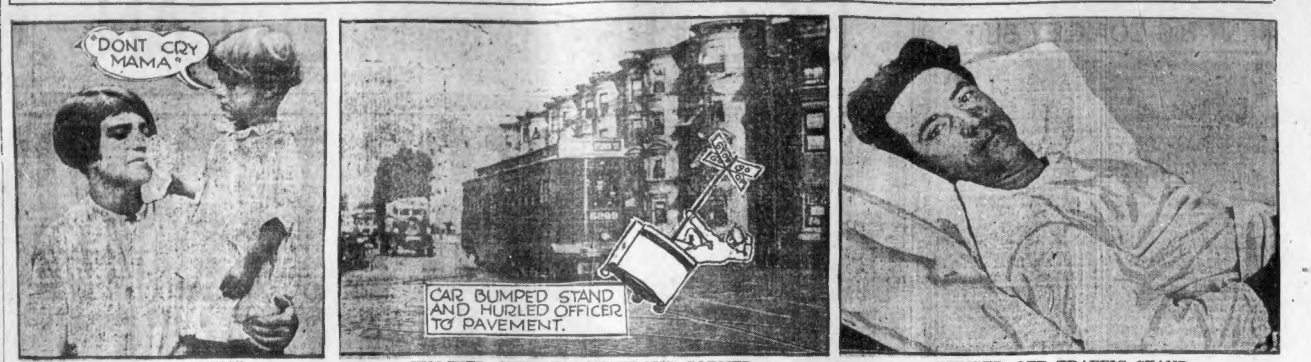

Standing for hours in the broiling sun, thousands—mostly women with babes in their arms—waited patiently their turn today to enter the Mexico City Cathedral, where Archbishop Mora del Rio confirmed several thousand children. The cathedral, as on every day for more than a week, was jammed even its great capacity. Masses were said almost constantly.

THOUSANDS CONFIRMED.

The archbishop fainted through exhaustion in the cathedral during the grueling hours in which he confirmed about 5000 children.

The Mexican government today issued orders by which it refuses to permit Catholic priests when they cease to function at midnight Saturday to turn over their churches to committees of Catholic laymen appointed by them for each church.

Instead, the government has ordered the churches placed in charge of committees appointed by the mayors of each town or city.

SHEEDY AGAIN IS DIRECTOR

Washington, July 28 (Universal)—Reappointment of Joseph E. Sheedy, as European director of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, succeeding Captain Warren F. Purdy, was confirmed by the Shipping Board.

Captain Purdy will be retained in the service for the present, acting as special representative of the fleet corporation.

Sheedy was formerly European director but resigned, following a disagreement with Captain Elmer Crowley, until recently president of the fleet corporation.

The Shipping Board confirmed the appointments of the eight trustees of the fleet, including H. Y. Saint, director of the newly-created division of purchase and supply. The trustees will hold their annual meeting today.

The other trustees confirmed by the Shipping Board were: A. C. Dalton, president of the fleet; A. Harry Philbin, vice-president; F. G. Frieser, director of traffic; D. H. Morrison, comptroller; E. H. Schmidt, treasurer; J. A. Wilson, director of operations, and Joseph E. Sheedy, European director.

CHARLESTOWN MAN KILLED

Private Wilfred F. White, driver, 4 Putnam street, Cambridge.

Private Edward C. MacLean, owner of the car, Thornton street, Newton.

Private Alfred Lown, Albemarle street, West Newton.

Private James A. Walsh, Pearl street, Newton.

Private John A. MacLean, Thornton street, Newton.

The injured, together with Mason's body, were taken to the Emerson Memorial Hospital at Concord.

According to the survivors' story, the car was descending a steep hill just beyond the State police barracks when it failed to take a sharp turn at the bottom.

A rear wheel struck a pole, throwing the riders into the highway. Private Mason was instantly killed.

Mason was the son of John J. Mason, superintendent of the Quartermaster's Department at the South Boston Army base. The soldier was to have been married in September to Gertrude Sheridan of Morris street, Everett.

HOOVER FAVORS RADIO PLAN

Washington, July 28 (I.N.S.) — Secretary of Commerce Hoover endorsed the proposed plan of radio broadcasters, manufacturers and listeners to form an association to help keep radio broadcasting off the rocks until Congress can pass regulatory legislation.

The association would be of great value in welding public opinion to prevent wave length piracy, Hoover said. He reiterated that broadcasting would be damaged if many new stations opened up.

Many stations which jumped their wave lengths have gone back to their own frequency because of protest by listeners, said Hoover.

CASH CHOKES TAILOR; HELD IN LYNN RUM CASE

Nicholas Cardoulis, Lynn tailor, now no reason why he should stick to his goose or even his sadiron. So today Cardoulis coupled business with business by the alleged selling of a gallon of gin to Police Sergeant Charles Duggan while engaged in putting fresh creases in the sergeant's pantles. The business combination was too much for the tailor. In attempting to swallow the three bills, totalling $18, given him by the sergeant, Cardoulis choked. He was arrested.

BELGIAN HOTELS FIGHT HIGH TAX ON FOREIGNERS

Brussells, July 28 (A.P.)—The Belgian government's proposed increase in taxation on foreigners, especially those native to countries with a high exchange, has resulted in opposition from hotel proprietors and industries.

The hoteimen have issued a protest and called a mass meeting on Saturday to safeguard their interests. They are fearful increased taxation on foreigners will discourage the tourist trade, which has been especially lucrative.

ONE COP SAID MAN WAS DRUNK, OTHER SAID "NO"

Brockton, July 28.—State Patrolman Cancannon of Middleboro told the Brockton Court Charles K. Place of Kenwood street, Brockton, was drunk when he arrested him on July 20 for reckless driving, but Officer LeBarron of Bridgewater told the Judge Place was sober when he booked him, and Judge King found Place not guilty today. Place pleaded not guilty.

ASSISTANT TO NEW HAVEN ROAD PRESIDENT DEAD

The death at his home in Norwich, Conn., of William Stanton Rathbun, who rose from being office boy for the Norwich and Worcester Railroad to become general assistant to the president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, was announced by the New Haven company today. He died of a heart attack.

MEANEST THIEF 'WORKS' HUB

"He brought glad news of my lost son in the West and, overjoyed, I went to the store to prepare a family feast. When I returned my trunk was broken open and one hundred and two dollars, all I have in the world, was gone."

Grief-stricken because her savings of years had vanished, and fearful that the landlord will carry out his threat and put her onto the street, Mrs. Fannie Bose, sixty-five-year-old mother, living at No. 16 Spring street, West End, has asked police to search for the thief.

The unidentified youth who preyed upon the aged woman's love for her son, is believed by police to be a clever crook who has been robbing unsuspecting women in the West End.

"Here is a five-dollar bill your son sent to you," said the mysterious stranger. "Put it at once with your other savings."

Mrs. Bose opened her trunk and placed the bill among her life savings. He then asked her to prepare him some food, saying his wife would join them and they would have a little feast.

The old woman trudged to the store and when she returned she found the contents of her trunk strewn about and her money missing.

Mrs. Bose explained she had been depriving herself of food and necessities in order to take a trip to Toledo, O., in search of her boy.

Mrs. Sophia Martin, a neighbor, told police a man had recently called at her apartment and asked for the name of all the old women living at No. 16 Spring street.

MRS. SCOTT ON 19TH FAST DAY

Detroit, Mich., July 28 (Universal) —Mrs. Russell Scott, who is fasting in a glass cage on the steps of the New Detroit Theatre in an effort to raise funds for the support of her three children, and if possible, assist her husband, Russell Scott, under sentence of death at Chicago, is gradually losing her strength, but not her will.

Mrs. Scott is now on her nineteenth day and is confident of continuing until the end of the forty-fifth. She no longer sits in a chair and is conserving her strength by not talking. Her weight has fallen from 120 pounds four ounces to 103 pounds twelve ounces, a loss of more than 16 pounds.

Quebec Ayrshire Breaks Butter, Milk Record

Ottawa, July 28 (I.N.S.)—"Nellie Osborne," a Canadian-owned Ayrshire cow, has broken the world's record for milk and butter.

In her 306 days' test she produced 21,241 pounds of milk and 909 pounds of butter fat.

The previous record, held by an American-owned Ayrshire, was 18,268 pounds of milk and 739 pounds of butter fat.

"Nellie Osborne" is owned and was bred by W. C. Wylie, Glen Farm, Howick, Que.

COMMERCIAL TREATY WITH PANAMA SIGNED

Washington, July 28 (A.P.)—The long delayed commercial treaty with Panama, negotiated to supplant the Taft agreement, which was abrogated in 1924, was signed today at the State department.

FIND MOURNED FRIEND ALIVE

Stamford, Conn., July 28.—After weeping beside the casket of a supposed friend in the mortuary chapel of a local funeral director, four elderly women took a last look to say goodby. What they saw changed tears of sorrow to those of joy and they hastened away to tell Mrs. Betsy Ann Lockwood how glad they were she was still alive.

The four women friends read a death notice in a local paper and assumed that the Betsy Ann Lockwood was their old friend. They hastened to the funeral rooms to pay their respects. It was another woman bearing the same name.

BROCKTON MAN HURT AS MOTORCYCLE CRASHES

William McCarthy of Crescent street, Brockton, suffered a fractured thigh and numerous cuts and bruises about the head and body, when his motorcycle crashed into a tra on Randolph avenue, near the Milton-Randolph-Quincy line today. McCarthy was picked up by passing motorists and taken to the Milton Hospital.

'Nothing's' Sale Costs Owner Jail Term

Middleton, Ct., July 28.—Nothing ventured, nothing gained is an old adage, nevertheless for his part in a transaction in which nothing featured prominently, Frank Mays, of No. 293 Washington street, is now doing something in jail to work out a fine of $10.

Mays, according to Joseph Schubert sold him a dog making out a bill of sale reading, "I hereby sell you Nothing for $4." "Nothing" returned to Mays in answer to his whistle, whereupon Schubert having gained nothing in the transaction invoked the aid of a policeman to help him get something for nothing.

TRAFFIC COP IS HURT BY CAR

Worried by a premonition that something had happened to her husband, night traffic officer at Massachusetts avenue and Boylston street, Mrs. Frances Nolan left her home, No. 4 Bay View place, South Boston, and hurrying to the spot found he had been injured.

She was informed that her husband, Thomas F. Nolan, attached to the Back Bay station, had been taken to the City Hospital suffering from cuts and bruises sustained when his stand was demolished by an in-bound trolley car.

According to witnesses the car struck the stand, which collapsed, burying Nolan in the wreckage.

Although he was not due home until 1 a. m., Mrs. Nolan felt that something was wrong and went at once to her husband's post to find that her fears were realized. Nolan's injuries are not serious.

MRS. DEVEREAUX HAS COLLAPSE

Mrs. Sarah Devereaux, mother of John J. Devereaux, one of the three youths condemned to die for the Waltham carbarn murder, has collapsed at her home on Gardner street, Allston, it was learned today.

Frank Manning, secretary of the Clemency Committee which is working for commutation of the sentences of Devereaux, John J. McLaughlin and Edward J. Heinlein, announced that Mrs. Devereaux had broken down under the strain.

The date of execution is less than two weeks away, and a conference had been planned for today between Governor Fuller and the mothers of the condemned youths.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Devereaux this conference was necessarily postponed, and will probably take place next Tuesday morning.

At the same time Governor Fuller will receive Mr. Manning, who will present the commutation petitions which are said to have thousands of signatures.

By that time the chief executive will have received the report of Frank A. Brooks, chairman of the State Board of Pardons and Parole, who conferred for more than five hours with the condemned men in East Cambridge jail.

NEWTONVILLE MAN'S SILVER FOUND IN STORE

Search of the licensed second-hand dealer's shop of A. G. Dominey and Company, at No. 67 Winter street, by Inspector Patrick J. O'Neill of police headquarters, armed with a search warrant, revealed 28 pieces of silver valued at $856, the property of Widow E. Wakefield, of No. 80 Trowbridge avenue, Newtonville, which were stolen from the home June 16. Police are now investigating the robbery and subsequent removal of the loot to the second-hand shop. An arrest is expected shortly.

HANGS HIMSELF ON PARK TREE

Worcester, July 28.—Despondent over his impoverished condition, but too proud to appeal to well-to-do relatives, Fred Clapp, seventy, of No. 40 Oxford street, Worcester, hung himself in the public park on Newton Hill.

For six weeks, according to police investigators, Clapp made his plans for suicide and frequently asserted his intention to end his life. Little attention was paid to his threats.

In spite of his advanced years, Clapp climbed a tree in the park, put a noose about his neck, fastened the other end of the rope to a limb and jumped. He fell clear of the ground by more than a foot. The body was discovered more than two hours later.

It is understood that the suicide was a cousin of S. Clapp of Spencer, a well-to-do citizen of that town.

FINED $20 FOR BEATING CHIEF

Indirectly the result of his attempts to assist firemen fighting a blaze at the Burlington Garage, Burlington, Joseph S. Crocker of No. 411 East Third street, South Boston, was fined $20 in Woburn Court.

Firemen resented Crocker's assistance, as well as the efforts of five companions. They appealed to Chief of Police W. J. Pollock. After the chief was knocked down by a blow from Crocker's fist he pulled his club and did a little knocking of his own. A charge of assault on an officer and drunkenness followed.

DUMP MILK TO FOIL RAIDERS

New Bedford, July 28.—Dairymen in this vicinity were in a furore of excitement over the sudden activity of agents of the State Health Department, who, to date, have found many milk samples way under the standard. Many cases of diluted milk were reported.

One dairyman, according to Hermann C. Lythgoe, director of the division of food and drugs, dumped his milk when he recognized inspectors. The dairyman will be prosecuted for interference.

DESERT ROMANCE ENDS FOR U. S. GIRL IN DIVORCE

Paris, July 28. (I.N.S.)— The "great adventure" of Martha Mailey, who as a young American girl had the distinction of being one of the first explorers ever to penetrate the mysteries of the Gobi Desert, has gone upon the rocks. The decree by the Paris divorce court has granted an annulment of marriage to M. Jacques le Lesdain, famous French explorer. In 1902, while Lesdain was leading an expedition through the Gobi Desert, he met Miss Mailey dressed in men's clothes. They fell in love, and joined company as far as Chahernow, where a Belgian missionary married them.

BOY LOSES LIFE TRYING TO RIDE WHEEL TOO BIG

Springfield, July 28.—Attempting to ride a bicycle which was too large for him ejet nine-year-old Antonio Accongio of No. 233 Quincy street, his life today. He fell directly into the path of an auto driven by Jacob Cohen of Earle street as he turned the corner at Eastern avenue and State street. The child was instantly killed. After taking the boy o Weston Memorial Hospital, Cohen gave himself up at the police station.

then carried the case to the House amazing medical evidence was presented in court.

Russell was granted a divorce decree after two trials. Mrs. Russell of Lords, where the divorce decree was rescinded on grounds the evidence of the husband was not legally admissible.

The decisions of the various courts, however, left some doubt as to the court's opinion of the legitimacy of Baby Geoffrey. Since the child might one day come into the title of Lord Ampthill, Mrs. Russell sought a court ruling in favor of Geoffrey, which was handed down today.

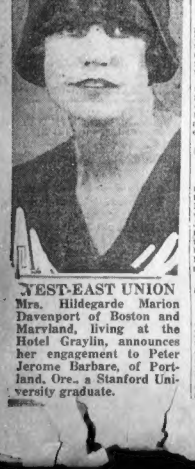

The case, which dragged through the courts for four years, is said to have been one of the most expensive ever tried.

Mrs. Russell now conducts a modiste's shop and designs many of the costumes for London theatrical productions.

WINTHROP WOMAN HURT IN MAINE AUTO CRASH

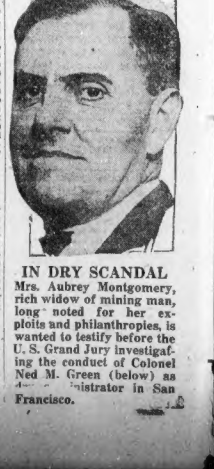

Lewiston, Me., July 28.—Mrs. Joseph Routhier of Winthrop, Mass., is in a serious condition at St. Mary's General Hospital, Lewiston, as a result of an automobile accident in East Livermore. Mrs. Routhier, with her husband, who was driving was on her way home. The driver became blinded by the lights of an oncoming machine and, turning too far off the road, sent his car over the embankment. The couple were brought to the Lewiston Hospital by passing autoists.

NEW DANAS SET OFF WAR IN NAMES

But "I'm Harrigan! That's Me!" Cry Those Who Bear It; Won't Change

Up from the blazing bricks and out of the distant sticks a thousand Harrigans sprang (or even sprung) today to do battle for the sturdy name which although not of the fashionable two-syllables like Dana, for instance, is plenty good enough to battle for.

There have been Harrigans and Harrigans—and Harrigans and Harts, if you remember—and whilst some have been bad and some have been good, like the bearers of any name, the Harrigans of New England will crackle their crops in a battle cry any time the cognomen is belittled.

WOMAN STARTS IT.

It all broke—this storm and strife—over the changing of her name to the fashionable two-syllable "Dana" by Mrs. Maria Lord Harrigan of Danvers, who, since she and her two children became Danas, is living in exclusive Beverly.

Mrs. Harrigan-Dana explained she had her last name and the last names of her son and daughter changed to Dana because she wanted a two-syllable name principally.

Many suggested today she had overlooked the name of Murphy, which however, they explained as a natural oversight being as how Murphy is a rare and unusual cognomen even in the two-syllable or double-barreled division.

But while Mrs. Dana-Harrigan—pardon, that should be Harrigan-Dana, but one finds it so difficult to keep the track, doesn't one—wanted her name changed to a title a bit more high-powered, no other Harrigan, be they two or three-syllably inclined, could be found today to relinquish the name.

Mrs. J. F. Harrigan of No. 356 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown, declared she and her family like their name very much and could not do without it.

"It certainly is a good name and nobody need be ashamed of it," she declared. "I don't think it is right for anybody to change the name they bear. I never would change mine."

"HARRIGAN—THAT'S ME."

John F. Harrigan, prominent Worcester business man and for years president of the State Branch, American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, also asserted that Harrigan is one elegant name and declared the Harrigan-Danas or Danvers-Beverly should be slapped smartly, not only on one cheek, but on two.

"I am sorry for the Harrigan-Danas," he said. "It would be far better if they had kept their names and had believed in and sung the old son, "Harrigan—That's Me."

Mrs. Henry Harrigan of No. 101 Oak Island street, Revere, said:

"My name has been good enough for me for thirty-two years. Of course, it is a person's privilege to do whatever she wishes, but while I feel that other families can do as they please in the matter, I never would change my name."

Mrs. Frank Harrigan, No. 80 Harbor View street, Revere:

"I certainly would not change my name. Why should I? I have no reason. I can't see why anybody should want to change from Harrigan.

"A name is no index to a person's personality or character. One name is as good as another. My husband's name is Harrigan and because I liked the man I took his name with him. That's the way I feel about it."

Mrs. T. F. Harrigan of No. 1 Granger place, Dorchester, declared:

"I am crazy about the name of Harrigan and I am perfectly satisfied with it; have been for a long time. I don't think it's right to change a name. I never would."

DeBit, founder and president of the School of Sacred Science, treated her for an internal disorder by rubbing his thumb up and down her spinal column in his rooms at a hotel was described by a Jamaica Plain widow to State Detective Arthur Keating, who is making an investigation at the request of District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien.

The widow's name and address is withheld at her request. She told State Detective Keating that de Bit, whose activities are under investigation of both the district attorney's office and Cambridge City Council, charged her $5 for each of the private interviews she had.

OPPOSES NEW CULT.

As a result of her experience, she told Detective Keating, she is willing to appear before any tribunal and tell her story, believing de Bit's followers should not be permitted to incorporate his school in this State, as desired. Thirty-four women and two men have signed the petition filed with Secretary of State Frederick Cook, asking incorporation.

"My first contact with de Bit was last Easter Sunday when I attended one of his lectures at the rooms of the Metaphysical Club of Boston at No. 234 Boylston street," she told Officer Keating. "I was much impressed by his talk. He seemed to be a very saintly man. I lingered after the lecture and asked him if I might see him in private about an important matter. He made an appointment with me for a few days later, calling up his secretary to be sure of the date.

IN PRIVATE ROOM.

"I went to his rooms in a hotel. He ushered me from the front room across a corridor into another room where we were alone. I went there to consult him about healing me by laying on of hands. I had previously been advised to have a surgical operation to correct an internal condition. I believe certain persons have the power to heal by laying on of hands and I thought he could cure me and an operation would be unnecessary.

"I had been in his presence but a short time when he began to talk sex matters to me. He asked me if there was any man in whom I was interested or liked and I told him I met a man a few months after my husband died that I liked very much because of his manliness and gentleness toward all women. Mr. de Bit then advised me to release my love emotions and give myself to this man. I told him that the man was married and that such things did not interest me.

POINTS OUT SALVATION

He replied it made no difference whether the man was married or single and that my salvation lay in giving myself to him. That I was not interested in such, I told Mr. de Bit. He kept harping on the sex subject, however, until I left.

"I made another appointment with him and went to see him again at the hotel in the hope he had the power to heal. All he wanted to talk about, however, was sex matters and I got no satisfaction except that he said 'I can help you.'

"I went back three more times to see him—five times in all—and on one of those occasions he took hold of my ankles which were slightly swollen and said, 'Have you a dropsical condition?' I replied 'No,' that swelling is caused by pressure on a nerve, I believe.' I pushed his hand away. This occurred twice. I have always been a modest woman and this action on his part made me cry. He charged me $5 each time I went to see him at the Brunswick.

SWORN NOT TO TELL.

"On one of these visits he made me lift my right hand and swear that I would not tell anyone what happened while I was at the hotel alone with him. He lifted his left hand during the time I held my right hand aloft.

"He gave me only one treatment during those visits. He rubbed his thumb up and down my spinal column, beginning near the base of my brain. There is a little lump now where he started. Whatever he did made me so weak that I had to consult a physician after I got home. He took away all my magnetism in the same way that a large magnet would take it away from a small one.

"The next time I went back to see him I asked him why he had taken away all my magnetism on the previous visit and he said that some outside influence must have crept in. He said he would straighten that out by praying for me."

HUB YOUTH ASKS FOR 'CHAIR'

Judge Gives Him Three Years After Startling Request for Execution

Philadelphia, July 28 (Universal).—"You would do the community a service if you sent me to the electric chair—and I wouldn't mind it a bit."

This suggestion, given a bit timidly, came from William Moore, a fugitive from justice in Boston, after he had pleaded guilty to passing worthless checks here for $400.

Moore violated terms of his parole for passing an $87 check on a Boston radio concern in 1923 by leaving the State of Massachusetts.

Moore is also known as William O'Neil and formerly lived in Cambridge, Mass.

Judge William Lewis was considering what disposition to make of the youth's case when he startled the courtroom with his advice.

HE BREAKS IN.

"The man has a long record, judge," a detective interposed.

"How long—what is it?" Judge Lewis asked.

"I'll tell you how long it is, judge," said Moore, before the detective could reply. "I haven't been free more than five months since I was two years old—and I'm only 26 now. I grew up in reform schools and when I got out of them I found my way into jails. The only things I learned in jails were meanness and new crookedness.

"I'm wanted in Boston, New York and Holyoke, Mass., right now for doing the same sort of work I did here. If you send me to jail I'll learn some other new way to steal."

COULDN'T BELIEVE IT.

The judge appeared incapable of believing what he heard.

"Now if there is some way to help you turn over a new leaf—to reform and become a useful—" he began.

"No, judge," Moore broke in, "there's no good in me. There's no reform in me. I think I'm better dead. As long as I live I'll be crooked. That's all I know and I'm pretty good at that. Trouble with me is a one-track mind. All I know is crooked."

The court was still puzzled.

"I can't do anything else, then, but give you three years in the penitentiary," said Judge Lewis.

"That will be fair enough," said Moore. "I guess you can burn me for the bad checks." He seemed disappointed.

As he was led out he turned and said: "Thanks, judge, you did your best."

PROBE BIG PIER CRASH; 3 HURT

Harbor and River Commission and marine underwriters today investigated the near fatal crash in Fore River when the tugboat Dione of the Boston Towboat Company struck the recreation pier at Idlewell, Weymouth Landing, injuring three children, one seriously, and endangering the lives of scores.

It is believed that the incoming tide was responsible for the wide sweep of the tug which carried it against the pier crowded with children, bringing the roof down on top of them. That many lives were not lost was due to the fact that the pier is lined with settees which broke the force of the roof's fall.

The pier controlled by the Idlewell Improvement Association juts out into the river about 35 yards. Attached to it is a raft equipped with a diving board. Generally between one hundred and two hundred children are on or around the pier and raft.

When the big tug, towing a coal barge, swung up the river, about 50 children were on the pier and in the water. The tug hit the northerly end of the pier, smashing timbers like toothpicks.

A few of the children, with a moment of warning had leaped into the water. Others attempted to escape up the runway but were caught in a trap when the roof commenced to sag. Though panic stricken they heeded the warnings of Clarence Furman, 18, to drop on their faces.

The most seriously injured was 10-year-old Eleanor Driscoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Driscoll, of No. 455 Middle street East Weymouth, widely known vaudeville artists. She is believed to have suffered a fractured skull.

SAN FRANCISCO GREETS SWEDISH CROWN PRINCE

San Francisco, July 28 (I.N.S.).—With the welcome roar of thousands still in their ears, Prince Gustaf Adolf and Crown Princess Louise, the Royal Swedish couple, were officially welcomed to San Francisco today at City Hall. Before the ceremony, the Crown Prince received official calls of respect from officers of the Navy, Army, Marine Corps, officials of all government branches and distinguished citizens.

The Crown Prince and Princess will bid good-by to San Francisco on July Aug. 3, when they will embark for Honolulu, enroute to the Orient.

WHITE HOUSE INVADED BY ARMY OF LABORERS

Washington, July 28 (A.P.).—Steam rollers, devoid, however, of all political significance, chugged their slow but noisy way among the flower gardens and shade trees in the White House front yard today while a veritable army of laborers swarmed inside the Executive Mansion.

Confusion and disarray prevailed in sharp contrast to the well-ordered house of presidential families as the White House undergoes its first extensive repairs in years.

Foremen estimated a month would be necessary to complete the work, which included the laying of a new roadway and the installation of a new electric elevator.

Smaller jobs, including redecoration of the famous East room, cleaning and rehanging of portieres, scrubbing woodwork and carpet renovation, are well under way.

EAST BOSTON MAN'S BODY FOUND ON DUMP

The body of George Duncan Brown of Lexington street, East Boston, was found today on the Porter street dump, East Boston, the man apparently having died of natural causes.

He had been in ill health for several months. Yesterday he left his home in search of work, and, in the opinion of his family, was taken ill on the street. There was no sign of foul play. Brown is survived by his widow, a son, George? Jr., and a daughter, Edna.

MRS. PAPPATHANOS PROVED SUCH AN ATTRACTION THAT COURT OFFICERS HAD TROUBLE HANDLING CROWD

LISTENS IN
One-time attorney for Mr. Blank follows the evidence in the Coakley suit with interested attention.

PICTURES LIFE
How she was married at the age of 16, a year after she came from Denmark, was told by Mrs. Pappathanos in answers to counsel.

QUESTIONS PLAINTIFF
Mrs. Pappathanos was led on by her counsel in describing her relations with her "Mr. Blank" at the $500,000 suit against Coakley.

SAYS SHE SIGNED WHE N TOLD TO BY COAKLEY
Mrs. Pappathanos described visits to the District Attorney's office and how she signed a paper there. She said Coakley gave her a paper and told her to sign. She further declared she did not r ead the paper before or after signing it.

SOUGHT PAPERS

COAKLEY'S ACCUSER BARES LOVE TRYST SECRETS

again the manufacturer offered her $4,000 if she would stay with him, she taking this and $5,000 more, according to her story.

"How long before your marriage to another man did you have relations with Mr. Blank?" Coakley demanded to know.

"One month," said the witness, bowing her head and lifting her lip.

He then drew from her the admission that she renewed relations with him after her marriage and again renewed them when her divorce was granted.

Her brother, she testified, acted as messenger to her from Mr. Blank with a dinner invitation after her marriage, she accepting and meeting Mr. Blank in the presence of her mother.

Later she was forced to bring out the name of her sister Lilly, who was at the Copley Square Hotel with her near the time that Mr. Blank paid her $7,000.

When she was asked if she would permit Coakley to tell the jury of confidential lawyer-to-client conversations that had ensued between him and her prior to the settlement with Mr. Blank, she refused to waive her right as a former client to seal his lips.

"I wish my conversations with Mr. Coakley to remain confidential," said Mrs. Pappathanos.

KEEPS BLANK'S LETTERS.

Letters from Mr. Blank to her were the subject of questioning and she admitted she still had them, not returning them to Mr. Blank, in spite of the settlement in which she waived all legal claims against him.

"Did you think I was hiding something from you when, as you claim, I placed my hand on the paper you were signing in the presence of Mr. Blank?" asked Coakley.

"Not at that time."

"But you think so now?"

"I know it now," said Mrs. Pappathanos.

She denied the authenticity of her signature on one of the exhibits and Coakley made her write her name on a slip of paper which he insisted that the jurors examine.

"I don't it true that you first disclaimed this signature after reading the words occurring there: 'I hereby promise that any violation of this agreement will be constructed as an said by the district attorney as an attempt to blackmail?'"

"I don't remember," she said.

COURT IS CROWDED.

A barrier of court officers and benches was required to bar the entrance of the courtroom where the trial is being held. Unable to gain entrance because the room was filled, eager would-be spectators jammed around the dor until court attaches herded them into a long line extending far down the corridor where they waited patiently for hours.

There were only three women in the throng that Mrs. Pappathanos faced in the courtroom when court was called after a delay caused by other business brought before Judge Lummus.

A handwriting expert was noticed among the witnesses today. He is to be called by Attorney Garland.

RECALLED TO STAND.

Mrs. Pappathanos was called to the witness stand to complete her direct examination.

Attorney Garland—When court adjourned yesterday, Mrs. Pappathanos, you told us about your visit to the district attorney's office on March 27, 1918? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you leave the district attorney's office with Mr. Coakley? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where did you go? A.—We went to Mr. Coakley's office.

Q.—Tell the jury what was said between you and Mr. Coakley at his office that day. A.—Mr. Coakley said: "I have got $6,200, and I will give you $3,000. I said: "Is that all?" He said: "I will give you $5,000 then and keep $1,200 for myself." He said he had got me out of a bad scrape and the papers had not printed anything about it, and that I should be satisfied. I told him I would not have gone through that for $100,000.

Judge Lummus: "Did he say $1200 or $12,000? A. He said he would keep $1200.

WITNESS AGITATED.

Mrs. Pappathanos was so agitated and spoke so slow and in such, broken English that Mr. Coakley complained he had not heard a word of what she had said. Judge Lummus directed the court stenographer to read the testimony.

Question by Atty. Garland—What denomination of bills did Mr. Coakley give you? A. He gave me two $500 bills and four $1000 bills.

Judge Lummus: "Making $5000 in all? A. Yes.

Garland: Did you return to New York? A.—Yes. He had the tickets which he gave me when he gave me the money.

Q.—Where did you go in New York? A.—To my mother's home.

Here Atty. Garland asked Clerk McDonald for the impounded papers in the case.

Clerk McDonald produced a long white envelope and broke the seal, handing several papers to Atty. Garland. Garland walked to the witness stand with one of these papers.

Q.—Is this your signature? A.—Yes.

SECRET PAPERS SHOWN.

Q.—Did you ever see this paper before? A.—Never a paper like that. The paper I signed was much larger—what do you call it—and I signed way down here. It— this paper.

Atty. G— produced a second paper.

Q.—Is this your signature? A.—Yes. This is my signature.

Q.—Did you sign this paper? A.—Yes. This is the only paper I did sign.

Judge Lummus—Where did you sign this paper, Exhibit Two? A.—The district attorney's office.

Garland—Did you see Mr. Coakley sign a paper before you signed this paper? A.—No.

Q.—Did you notice Mr. Coakley's signature on the paper when you signed it? A.—No.

Q.—Did you see him sign any paper while you were in the district attorney's office before or after you signed? A.—No.

QUESTION BY JUDGE.

Judge Lummus—Was there typewriting on the paper? A.—No.

Q.—Were there any lines printed? (Here Judge Lummus showed her the release and pointed out that portion which was printed in order to make the question clear.) A.—No.

Garland—You stated yesterday that Mr. Coakley rested his arm on the paper (Coakley interrupted to say: "She said I put my hand on it." A.—Yes.

Q.—So you could not see all that was printed on the paper? A.—Oh, no.

Q.—At any time before Coakley gave you the $5,000 was there any talk about how much he or you were to receive from your claims against Mr. Blank? A.—No.

Q.—Did Coakley at any time before the settlement say that he was to receive $20,000? A.—Oh, no.

DENIES HEARING FIGURES.

Q.—Did he say he was going to give your husband $3,000? A.—No.

Q.—Did you hear anything said before you received $5,000 about how much Mr. Coakley was to receive? A.—No.

Q.—Or what his charge would be? A.—No.

Q.—Was there anything said about you getting half the proceeds and Coakley getting half? A.—No.

Q.—Have you told the jury yesterday and today all you can remember about your conversations with Mr. Coakley? A.—I told him about Mr. Blank in the hotel room.

Here Mrs. Pappathanos was taken for cross-examination by Mr. Coakley.

Q.—Do I understand in your last story that you had a fight with Mr. Blank in the hotel room for half an hour and this was told to me? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you have relations with him after that? A.—Yes.

Q.—You used to live in Maine, didn't you? A.—No. I went there to visit.

Q.—Visit whom? A.—My brother, Oscar.

Q.—Did you meet Blank there? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you have relations with him there? A.—Yes.

Q.—How old were you then? A.—Sixteen.

WITH "MR. BLANK."

Q.—How many times did you have relations with him in Maine? A.—Just once.

Q.—For how long a time did you see Mr. Blank once a week in Boston? A.—Eight or nine months.

Q.—How long before your marriage did you have illicit relations with Blank? A.—One month before.

Q.—Now the time you had illicit relations in Boston with him was the time you were made ill, wasn't it? A.—Yes. After my marriage.

Q.—Your brother, Oscar, was the messenger from Blank with a dinner invitation to you? A.—Yes.

Q.—That was the time you went with Blank the first time after your marriage? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was your mother present? A.—Yes, she left after dinner.

Q.—After dinner you went to another hotel? A.—Yes.

GIRL'S NAME EXCLUDED.

Q.—Did you go to a bed chamber? A.—Yes, but it did not look like one.

Q.—Where did your brother go? A.—He had left us to go out with another girl.

Q.—Who was she? A.—She is married now. I don't—

Here Judge Lummus interrupted to ask Coakley if he wanted to know the name of the woman. Mr. Coakley replied that he did. Judge Lummus suggested that he did not have a particular reason for wanting to know the woman's name it would be advisable to keep the name out of the case. This was agreed to.

WITNESS PERTURBED.

Mrs. Pappathanos frequently bit her lip while being interrogated by Mr. Coakley concerning her relations with the wealthy Mr. Blank.

Judge Lummus had to take the examination in hand repeatedly and the court stenographer was asked to read what the witness had said as her testimony was not suffi- ntly loud and clear to reach the jury a few feet away.

Mr. Coakley—Did you have a fight with Mr. Blank at the hotel next to the Adams House the night you were there? A.—I don't know what you mean.

Q.—Did you protest against his advances? A.—I don't understand.

Judge Lummus—Did you have a fight or quarrel with Mr. Blank the night that you were at the hotel next the Adams House? A.—No.

Coakley—That was the first time you had been false to your husband? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you oppose his relations with you? A.—No, not that night.

Q.—Didn't you tell the jury yesterday that you did oppose his advances that night? A.—No.

THEIR FIRST MEETING.

Q.—Did you have any relations with Mr. Blank between that date, January 17, and the time you came to me in 1918? A.—No.

Q.—Was it 1918 the first time you saw me?

Here Atty. Garland interrupted: "You said 'saw you' Mr. Coakley."

Mr. Coakley.—Well, the first time you talked with me? A.—Yes, it was in 1918 that I saw you first.

Q.—Now did you renew relations with Mr. Blank after you had secured your divorce. A.—Yes.

Attorney Garland objected here, and Judge Lummus ruled that the question was pertinent in the circumstances. Garland took exceptions.

FOR SECOND CLAIM.

Q.—Where did you renew your relations with Mr. Blank after I had you divorced, in 1918? A.—At the Healey Hotel.

Q.—Didn't you come to my office with letters and try to renew another claim against Mr. Blank after I had secured your divorce and you had renewed relations with him? A.—es.

Q.—You talked with Mr. Hurd in my office, didn't you, and asked him to proceed against Mr. Blank? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you consulted a lawyer Gorey, didn't you? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you go to a man named Gorey after you had been to my office and asked us to proceed? A.—I don't remember.

Judge Lummus—The question was "Did you see Atty. Gorey about a case? A.—Yes, after I had seen Mr. Coakley.

Q.—Did you ask him to proceed against Mr. Blank? A.—Yes.

Coakley—And after you had seen Mr. Gorey, did you then consult Atty. Garland? A.—Yes.

NAMES "MR. TURNIP."

Q.—Who sent you to Mr. Garland? A.—I think it was Mr. Turnip.

Q.—You mean Turnip, the same as you eat? A.—Yes.

Q.—You have been to Mr. Garland's office quite frequently in the last year, haven't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you have had frequent

Her Brother Was Go-Between for Blank

Mrs. Ora Pappanthanos bit her lip and showed intense agitation as Daniel H. Coakley, whom she is suing for $500,000, brought other members of her family, mother, sister and brother, into her recital of the love affair she had with wealthy "Mr. Blank" as he cross-examined her ruthlessly.

She admitted meeting Mr. Blank in Boston after her marriage.

Your brother was the messenger with Mr. Blank's dinner invitation?" Coakley asked.

"Yes," she replied.

"Did your mother was present?" "Yes."

"And after diner you went to another hotel and to a bed chamber?"

"Yes," said the pretty blonde-haired witness, adding that her brother left to go out with another girl.

Atty. Connolly Causes Laugh in Court

As Mrs. Pappathanos, testifying in the Coakley suit in Superior Court today, mentioned visiting a certain lawyer about her affairs, a tall young man in a blue suit arose and stepped toward the bar enclosure.

A snicker of merriment ran through the audience, the spectators thinking he was the man she was talking about.

"No, I'm not the fellow," the man of the blue suit cried out, sensing the reason for the snicker. Everybody laughed, himself included, relieving the tenseness of the dramatic struggle of wits between Coakley and the woman who is suing him.

The man proved to be Attorney Thomas B. Connolly, brother of James B. Connolly, famed writer of sea stories.

BOSTON BANS COATLESS COPS

Other cities may permit their policemen to doff their coats during hot summer days, but Boston's finest will continue to sport full uniforms. Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson says so with emphasis.

Anyhow, according to the commissioner, there have been no complaints of discomfort from the men. He believes that removing of coats and permitting the use of shirtwaists would only addto the discomfort in case of sudden showers.

Q.—You remember questions that were put to you for the court? A.—No.

$7,000 PAYMENT.

Q.—Well, now tell us about the $7,000 which Mr. Blank gave you before you came to me with your case. Where was it he gave it to you and under what circumstances? A.—I was in New York and I got a telegram from my brother Oscar asking me to come to Boston at once. I came next day. I went to the Copley Square Hotel and I met my brother Oscar there, with Mr. Blank. They had stayed there the night before.

Q.—What talk did you have with Mr. Blank? A.—He told me he would give me $7,000.

Q.—Is that the way he started the conversation when you arrived? A.—Yes, he mentioned that right away. He said he had $4,000 which he would give me right away, and if I would consent to remain with him that day at the hotel he would give me $3,000 more.

Judge Lummus—How much did Mr. Blank give you at the Copley Square that day? A. $4000.

WITH HER SISTER.

Judge Lummus—Did he reach in his pocket for the other $3000? A. No.

Judge Lummus—When did he mention about giving you the $7000? A. When I came there.

Mr. Conkley—Did he give you the $7000 at the Copley Square Hotel? A.. No, he gave me $4000 there that afternoon at two o'clock. He gave me the other $3000 at another hotel five hours later that day, the hotel where I was stopping with my sister.

Q. What is the name of that hotel? A. I don't remember.

Q. What is your sister's name? A. It was one of my sisters.

Q. Let's have her name, which sister—

Atty. Garland—I don't think the name is material.

Judge Lummus—The witness may answer the question? A.—It was my sister Lilly.

Q.—Does she live in New York? A.—No, Canada.

Judge Lummus—Do I understand that you and your sister were in the hotel the name of which you don't remember? A.—Yes.

OUTSIDE HER ROOM.

Mr. Conkley—Was your sister with you when Mr. Blank gave you the additional $3,000 that day after giving you $4,000 at the Copley Square? A.—She stopped with me at the hotel but she was not with me when Mr. Blank gave me the $3,000.

Q.—Where were you and Mr. Blank when he gave you the $3,000? A.—Standing outside the door of my room.

Q.—Were you afraid to let him in your room? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you have relations with Mr. Blank at that hotel that day? A.—No. I did not want to.

Q.—But he gave you $7,000 in one day? A.—Yes.

—Did you go to Maine to see Mr. Blank? A.—Yes.

Judge Lummus—Without naming the city in which he lived did you go to that city? A.—Yes.

WITH HER BROTHER.

Mr. Conkley—Were you living in that city in Maine? A.—No, only visiting.

Q.—Was your brother Oscar living there? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you claim that you were ill a second time? A.—I don't know which time it was. Mr. Blank sent me to Dr. Sanborn in Boston and I went to Europe.

Q.—You went to Europe at Mr. Blank's expense? A.—Yes, with my brother, Oscar.

Q.—Did Oscar go at Mr. Blank's expense also? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where did you go? A.—Denmark.

Q.—Did your brother Oscar ever give you money from Mr. Blank? A.—Yes. He gave me a few hundred the time I went to see the doctor, and $600, then $200 more.

Q.—This was before you went to Europe? A.—Yes.

Q.—How much money did Mr. Blank give you at that time. A.—Not to me, to my brother.

SAYS OSCAR GOT $13,000.

Q.—How much did he give your brother then? A.—About $3,000 I think.

Q.—Did you agree with Mr. Blank to stay in Denmark? A.—No, he wanted me to come back.

Q.—You told me all about this? A.Yes.

Here a short recess was taken. Judge Lummus explained to Mrs. Pappathanos, "If you employ an attorney and consult him in regard to a case he must have your consent before he can be released to testify as to what conversation he had with you. Do you wish to release Mr. Conkley?

The witness had difficulty in understanding. Judge Lummus again explained in detail and the witness finally said she wished her conversation with Mr. Conkley to remain confidential.

Mr. Conkley then resumed questioning of the witness.

Q.—You say that on March 27 I presented a paper to you in the office of the district attorney, he, you and I being the only present? A.—Yes.

SIGNING OF PAPER.

Q.—And we were all standing? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you signed this paper? A.—Yes.

Q.—I presented a paper to you and you wrote your name on it? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you want the jury to understand yesterday that I was trying to cover it up? A.—I didn't know what you tried to do. I was telling where your hand was.

Q.—Did my hand cover what was written on the paper? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you think I was trying to cover it up? A.—Not at that time.

Q.—But you think so now? A.—I know it now.

Handing to her one of the exhibits, Mr. Conkley asked: Did you write this signature? A.—It is my handwriting, but I certainly would not sign my name to what that is.

Judge Lummus—You say that is your signature on Exhibit Two? A.—It is my handwriting, but the letter "P" is different.

DENIES ONE SIGNATURE.

Conkley—Is that your signature on Exhibit One? A.—It looks like it.

Q.—Do you say both signatures are yours? A.—I say the letter "P" is not the way I write it.

Q.—Will you say it is a forgery? A.—I won't say that.

Here after some exchange between witness and counsel Mrs. Pappathanos finally said that the handwriting on Exhibit One was not hers, but that the signature on Exhibit Two was hers.

At the request of Conkley the witness then wrote her own signature on a piece of paper, and Mr. Conkley handed it with the two exhibits to the jury for examination.

Q.—Were you ever shown a copy of the paper given by Mr. Garland by Atty. McGillicuddy, counsel for Mr. Blank? A.—Yes.

Q.—Mr. Garland showed you a copy of the paper to the effect that I had received $150,000? A.—I don't know about that paper. He showed me one paper.

Q.—Did he ever show you a copy of the receipt? A.—Yes.

Q.—This paper here, Exhibit One, you never saw before until it was shown you in court? A.—No.

IN ROLLINS' OFFICE

Q.—Were you ever in Mr. Rollins' office on Devonshire street. A.—Yes.

—Did they show you papers there? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. Garland, then, that this was not your signature? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you say it was a forgery, not your signature?

Attorney Garland objected to the use of the term forgery.

Judge Lummus—You might not use the word forgery, Mr. Conkley, but might ask if it is her handwriting.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. Garland that that was not your signature? A.—That was not the conversation.

Q.—Didn't you tell Mr. Garland a year ago that that was not your signature? A.—Yes.

Q.—It wasn't then as a result of what I told you that you would get into serious trouble because of signing a paper of that kind? A.—No, never.

MEMORY FAILS HER.

Q.—Nok Mrs. Pappathanos, isn't it a fact that after you read that paper in Rollins' office you said it was not your signature?

Q.—Now isn't it a fact that the reason you said it was not your signature was because of these words you read on the paper: "I hereby promise that any violation of this agreement will be construed by the district attorney as an attempt to blackmail." Now wasn't it after reading these words that you said: "That doesn't look like my handwriting, and this is not my signature?" A.—I don't remember.

Mr. Conkley next produced interrogatories in the suit signed by Mrs. Pappathanos. He questioned her at length about the question and answers in the interrogatories, and she claimed that she did not read them, but that Mr. Garland read them aloud to her, adding that that was what she had an attorney for.

Q.—I will now call your attention to the interrogatory relating to a telegram which you said you received from me in 1918. This answer to the interrogatory reads: "Return to Boston immediately. Some talk of settlement." Please come to this office at once. D. H. Conkley?" A.—Yes.

Q.—Now, wasn't that the only telegram you ever received from me while you were in New York? A.—Yes.

Q.—Then the quotation in the interrogatory is not according to the telegram, is it? A.—No.

Q.—It isn't a correct quotation is it? A.—No.

Q.—Now matter of fact don't you know that that telegram related only to your divorce, and that up to that time you had had no talk about any claim against Mr. Blank? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. Garland the whole of this telegram? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Don't you know that the talk of settlement meant your divorce? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you tel Mr. Garland that that telegram reated to the Blank case? A.—Do you mean at that time?

Q.—Answer my question; did you tell Mr. Garland that the telegram you got from my office while in New York had relation only to your divorce case? A.—No.

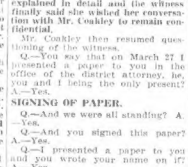

Q.—So that the quotation in your interrogatory is wrong? A.—Yes.

LINCOLN RITES IN N. H. TODAY

Washington, July 28.—As a mark of respect to Robert Todd Lincoln, a former Secretary of War, flags at the War Department were placed at half-staff. Flags at all military posts also were ordered at half-staff for today.

Manchester, Vt., July 28 (A.P.)—A funeral service in keeping with the quiet dignity and simplicity of his life was to mark the final rites here late this afternoon for Robert Todd Lincoln, son of President Lincoln.

The Rev. D. Cunningham-Graham, pastor of the Congregational church, was to officiate and pall bearers selected included members of the family. The Ekwanok Country Club of which Mr. Lincoln was president for 22 years closed for the day and a championship golf match that was to have been played on its course was postponed.

5 "HELL'S KITCHEN" THUGS HELD IN 4 BIG HOLDUPS

New York, July 28 (I.N.S.).—Five members of the "Hell's Kitchen" thug gang who confessed to spending $15,000 "enjoying themselves" from the stolen proceeds of four "White Light" district holdups will be scrutinized today in the police line-up by witnesses in daring robberies of the last three months. Three of the band have records while the other two have associated with criminals since boyhood. One of the band was killed accidentally by a pal in a recent bank holdup.

TWO HUB CHILDREN DYING AFTER FALLS

Two Greater Boston children were reported likely to die from falls at Massachusetts General Hospital early today. They were Rita Deperio, thirteen, No. 3 Thatcher street, North End, whose skull was fractured when she fell down the stairs of her home, and Charles L. Tillerton, No. 91 Malden street, Everett, who fell twenty feet from a tree in the rear of his home.

3 DYING, 50 INJURED, IN CONEY ISLAND CRASH

New York, July 28 (I.N.S.).—Three persons were dying today and fifty others were injured following the collapse of a stone railing on a crowded stairway leading from the boardwalk at Coney Island to the beach. With a crowd packed on the stairway witnessing fireworks, the railing gave way under the pressure of the throng and hurled a hundred spectators to the beach.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Kenneth G. Colwells of London, Eng., Now on Honeymoon Here

AN AMERICAN HONEYMOON IS THE pleasant program the Kenneth Galbraith Colwells, of London, England, are following. Their American pilgrimage carried them to St. Louis, the bridegroom's former home, and now they're guests at beautiful Stoneleigh Manor, at Rye Beach on the New Hampshire seacoast.

THE COLWELLS have been the center of much entertaining here, compatriots of the bridegroom doing the honors for the sprightly Mrs. Colwell, who was Miss Catherine Law, youngest daughter of the late Bonar Law, English statesman and Premier.

A YOUNGER SON of Captain J. C. Colwell, United States Navy (Retired), Mr. Colwell is a rising young financier in the British Metropolis. The wedding was celebrated in June, at the St. Columbus Church, Pont street.

INTERESTING FOREIGNERS at Stoneleigh Manor include the Count de Furimier of Italy, now at the luxuriously appointed Rye Beach hostelry as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Gates, of New York, who are season guests.

MISS LOUISA APPLETON WELLS of Otis place, Boston, is at Stoneleigh Manor for a long mid-Summer stay. Transient guests have been Joseph Crane and George F. Willett, also of Boston.

SPEAKING OF WEDDING JOURNEYS, the interrupted Russell Codman-Elinor Patterson honeymoon is about to be continued in Europe, for Mr. Codman sails soon for the other side to join his bride.

THE ELITE OF SEVERAL CITIES know the new Mrs. Codman as a star of "The Miracle," and likewise was interested in the Codman-Patterson marriage celebrated quietly sans the usual society wedding trappings.

SOON AFTERWARD the bride sailed away to Europe, for consultation with "Miracle" powers that be regarding her future professional work, which both she and Mr. Codman declared was to continue despite wedding bells.

AS A CHICAGO SOCIETY recruit to the stage (her parents are the Joseph Medill Patterson's) and as a star in the Gest spectacle, the former Miss Patterson has trodden the bright path to fame. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Codman are the parents-in-law.

MRS. IRA NELSON MORRIS
North Shore hostess is entertaining almost continuously this Summer.

PRETTILY ATTIRED in blue, Miss Emily Evatt was an attentive spectator at the Tedesco tennis matches. The frock evidenced the vogue for knitted fabrics, and the matching chapeau was a trig little affair, snug of crown and slanting of brim.

THE PRINCESS MICHAEL CANTACUZENE, flitting in and out of town in attendance on her mother, Mrs. Thomas P. Curtis, who is indisposed, was smart in black flat crepe with flashes of Chinese red in accessories, purse, kerchief and brilliant hat ornament.

OF ALL NEWPORT'S natty Younger Set, none is more admired than the dark-eyed and slenderly tall Miss Mary Amex, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Lothrop Ames of Boston, North Easton and Newport.

A MORNING FROCK of honey yellow, boyishly simple, and worn with a trim, soft, yellow felt, ornamented merely by a ribbon cocarde, was worn by Miss Ames for a recent Casino appearance. Miss Ames, of next Winter's bud set, will be central figure in entertainment galore.

"CANDY KID" MUST PUT HIS NECK IN NOOSE

Baltimore, July 28 (I.N.S.).—Richard Reese Whittemore must hang by the neck until dead in the early morning of Friday, Aug. 13.

The "Candy Kid," convicted of the murder of Robert H. Holtman, guard, lost his final chance to escape the rope when Governor Ritchie refused to intervene to commute his sentence to life imprisonment.

Whittemore paced his cell today and reiterated to guards: "The quicker this thing is done the better."

FULLER VIEWS DEVENS PARADE

Camp Devens, July 28.—Governor Fuller, here for the second time within a week, today will review two parades of citizen soldiery. The remaining troops of the 26th Division here, including the 51st Field Artillery Brigade with the 101st Ammunition Train and the 101st Field Artillery, will first pass in review followed later by the Tried Battalion of Negro troops and the 373rd Infantry.

Learning by experience the extraordinary fire danger with which the camp has been threatened, the troops have been especially drilled in fire fighting, and grounds in the vicinity of all the barracks are kept constantly wet down. A small brush fire, near the negro troops' quarters, was quickly extinguished.

DANIELS SAYS FARMERS MUST GET INTO POLITICS

Raleigh, N. C., July 28 (A.P.).—Farmers of the nation should "awake and go into politics red-headed" in the opinion of Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy. Addressing the annual farmers' convention here last night, he declared the farmers must demand their rights if they expect to obtain them.

"There never was a time when farmers had such negligible influence in government as now," he asserted. "And there never was a time when the growers of staple crops were so far removed from prosperity. Politics is the mainspring of action in wealth. If the many abdicate their function, they may be sure the few will seize the scepter."

5 Years for $50 Theft

Bradford, Eng., July 28.—David Harris was sentenced to five years' imprisonment for stealing $50 from Judge Mossop.

PACT TO DRY UP BAHAMAS

London, July 28 (A.P.).—Aridity threatens the Bahama Islands in so far as they are a fountain for thirsty stay-at-home Americans. The oasis, where the tenants of Rum Row get supplies to sell off the Coast of the United States, is affected under an agreement reached by Brig. General Lincoln C. Andrews, head of the dry enforcement contingent in the United States, and British Government officials.

The British Government, under the agreement, has given the American prohibition forces certain latitude in the territorial waters of the Bahamas, out of which liquor has been constantly making its way to American shores, and been promised other cooperation.

Although the details of the agreement are being kept secret, both the British Government and General Andrews have expressed pleasure at the outcome and unofficial observers assert that it constitutes the greatest blow to trans-Atlantic bootlegging since the dry law went into effect.

It is understood that the United States will be permitted to have an intelligence service in the Bahama Islands to trace liquor shipments, and also that the British Government will supervise carefully the use of the British flag by vessels engaged in carrying alcoholic cargoes and to deal with infractions of the law regarding clearances, quarantine and other matters.

The agreement will become effective as soon as the machinery can be set in motion.

MURPHY WILL BE CANDIDATE

James J. Murphy of Roxbury, former campaign manager of George E. Curran, has announced his intentions of being a candidate for the latter's place as Governor's councillor from the fourth district at the September primaries.

Mr. Murphy is well known in city and State politics. For the past twenty years he has served on State committees. He has been in close contact with every State situation and is familiar with their needs.

James J. Murphy

He is a member of the Knights of Columbus, Catholic Federated Societies, Irish Societies and many other social and fraternal organizations.

AMERICAN COUPLES DIVORCED IN PARIS

Paris, July 28 (I.N.S.)—Petition for divorce was filed here today by Mrs. John Meehan, who gave her husband's address as Chicago. The Meehans were married in New York in 1920.

A divorce has been granted to Mrs. Oliver Chaffee, the former Mary Cole. The Chaffees were married in New York in 1918.

A divorce was granted today to Mrs. Milton Dorland Doyle, the former Marion Carpenter of New York. The Doyles, who are well known in New York Society, were married in New York, October 22, 1921.

Mrs. Bernard Frankel of New York was granted a divorce from Dr. Bernard Frankel. The Frankels were married in New York, January 26, 1912.

Mrs. William Dickson, the former Marie Carroll, was also granted a divorce. The Dicksons were married in Washington, November 11, 1919.

WHITE STAR LINE DEAL HITS A SNAG IN LONDON

London, July 28 (A.P.).—At the annual meeting of Furness, Withy & Co., Ltd., the chairman, Sir Frederick Lewis, said he regretted to state it had been found impossible to arrive at a mutually satisfactory basis for the purchase of the White Star Line.

It was a very difficult matter to keep negotiations of this magnitude strictly private, he added, and their existence had become known prematurely. The disclosure had created a good deal of comment in the press, and under the circumstances the authoritative statement published recently had been considered desirable.

ASKS GERMANS TO AID IN CONCILIATION WORK

Berlin, July 28 (A.P.).—The society for European Conciliation, just formed under the presidency of Prof. Walter Schuecking, one of the signers of the Versailles Treaty, publishes an appeal declaring events at Locarno and Geneva have shown the necessity of the European nations getting together on a basis of pacification, solidarity and economic co-operation. The appeal urges all Germans interested in international understanding to join the society, pointing out that similar bodies are being formed in other countries.

NAME RECEIVER FOR VANDERBILT PAPERS

Los Angeles, July 28 (A.P.).—John H. Brodix, of Miami, Fla., has been appointed receiver for Vanderbilt Newspaper, Inc., by United States Judge McCormick. The receiver was ordered to take immediate possession of all property of the corporation, which includes the Illustrated Daily News published here, and the Herald at San Francisco and Tab at Miami, Fla.

The assets of Vanderbilt Newspapers, Inc., were listed at $25,000 while the liabilities were alleged to be in excess of $1,000,000.

CARTOONIST McMANUS VISITS ON WEST COAST

San Francisco, July 28.—George McManus, noted cartoonist, who has made hundreds of thousands of readers of the Hearst newspapers double up with laughter day after day with his comic strip, "Bringing Up Father," arrived in San Francisco for a visit of several days.

Fleas Do Not Even Tickle Skin of Senegalese

Sqeulda Djebel Druse, July 28, (A.P.).—The French troops who are operating against the tribesmen around Damascus have two enemies in the Djebel Haurans, the Druses and the Fleas. The soldiers say the Fleas are the worse.

The correspondent recently passed a sleepless night in an ambulance placed at his disposition. To the orderly—a coal black Senegalese—who brought his coffee in the morning, he complained of the pests.

The Senegalese rolled his eyes, and said with a touch of scorn.

"You Americans have such sensitive skins. We don't mind them."

PROBE GARB OF EVANGELIST

Monterey, Cal., July 28 (I.N.S.).—With the definite announcement of Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, that her daughter would not come here to confront witnesses who are positive the evangelist was the woman who was seen here subsequent to her disappearance last May at Ocean Park, in the company of a man identified as Kenneth L. Ormiston, and with the departure of officers from Los Angeles, excitement today was slowly subsiding.

Before departing for Los Angeles, where Assistant District Attorney Joseph Ryan said he would present new evidence before the Grand Jury, if it convenes again to investigate the McPherson case, he and Captain of Detectives Sterman Cline visited several stores in neighboring cities in an effort to locate the source of the clothes worn by Mrs. McPherson when she made her spectacular reappearance.

Just before he left here, Ryan said he was positive that Mrs. McPherson was the mysterious, begoggled woman who accompanied the man who has been identified as Ormiston.

NAB BURGLAR, 8 IN COP'S HOME

The youngest housebreaker in the history of the Milton police department, an eight-year-old Dorchester boy, was captured by Officer Frank ... of the Metropolitan Park police in the officer's home, No. 83 Brush Hill road, Milton.

According to the police, the youthful prowler was caught in the act of ransacking a dresser in a chamber of the Philbrook home, while in his pockets were found a gold watch and a pair of opera glasses.

Philbrook reached home about 9:30 p. m. and found the house upset, Hearing a noise upstairs he found the little stranger busily engaged at his nefarious task. He took him to the Milton police station, where the boy said he had wandered around and, seing an open window in the Philbrook home, effected an entrance.

The police telephoned to the boy's mother and she took her offspring home. Because of his tender years no official action will be taken, but it was indicated a shingle or hairbrush would be applied where it would do the most good.

Save them from enemies that endanger their loveliness

Sheer silk crepes and printed chiffons can be kept fresh, new-looking

THIS season's fragile fabrics can be washed—yes, indeed. Washed over and over again and keep their lovely new look until the very end! How?

Not by any old-time method! Such filmy loveliness is soon ruined by the two unseen enemies of delicate fabrics.

The first unseen enemy is rubbing. The soft, new bloom which made you want to own one of the lovely silk crepe frocks is soon completely destroyed by rubbing with cake soap! In time rubbing destroys the very life of silk fabrics.

The second unseen enemy is free alkali! Invisibly at first, but surely, swiftly, the delicate fibres are weakened, their colors faded by the free alkali ordinary soaps—cakes, flakes, chips—contain. Your pretty dresses are dowdy, old-looking long before their time!

Entrust your precious, perishable silk crepes and chiffons—so sheer, so costly—to Lux! There's no free alkali in Lux. It cleanses without ruinous rubbing. Rich, bubbling Lux suds refresh, renew, rejuvenate delicate fabrics without harm to fibres or colors! That is, of course, if the fabric is safe in pure water alone.

Never "just soap and water" — tenderness no! Unbeatable by silken fabrics can stand only the safest care. Wash them in Lux and they'll stay like new at such trifling cost.

Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Massachusetts.

PRELATE ASKS PRAYERS FOR CATHOLICS IN MEXICO

Rio De Janeiro, July 28.—Cardina. Arcoverde today issued an order for all Brazilian Catholic churches to offer prayers for Catholics and Catholic societies in Mexico. The first prayers in all the churches will be offered Sunday next.

MUSSOLINI'S ASSAILANT NOW IN STRAIGHT JACKET

Rome, July 28.—It is reported that the condition of Miss Violet Gibson, the British woman who tried to assassinate Premier Mussolini, is growing worse daily. It has become necessary to place her in a straight jacket. She no longer recognizes her own relatives.

What is Real Vinegar

Yes—what does real vinegar taste like? If Heinz makes it, then it tastes like real vinegar—because it is real vinegar—it has the true vinegar flavor—something more than mere sourness.

Long aging in the wood brings out the ripe mellowness of this true vinegar flavor which enlivens other flavors and adds a zest of its own. Good vinegar cannot be hurried.

It helps a lot in making good salad dressing to use good vinegar —Heinz Vinegar.

MID-WEEK MOTOR NEWS

By J. HERBERT DODGE, Automobile Editor

BOB SHAWKEY

The growing popularity of the Peerless "8" with baseball stars was evidenced when Bob acquired his new bus.

SHAWKEY BUYS PEERLESS '8'

Recent purchase of a 90 degree V type eight cylinder Peerless by Bob Shawkey, star New York Yankee pitcher, adds another to the list of big league ball players who have purchased Peerless cars, said W. L. Snow, Gen. Mgr. of the Peerless Motor Co., of Boston.

Without a dissenting voice, these players assert that the speed, power and flexibility of the Peerless cars influenced them in their choice, he said.

The Washington ball club has been the leader in the choice of Peerless cars, four members of the team now being owners. They are Walter Johnson, veteran pitcher, Roger Peckinpaugh, Rice and Bluege.

SIGNALS EACH CAR DELIVERY

At any time during the business day, any day this month, automobiles in the vicinity of No. 939 Commonwealth avenue might hear the musical clang of a ship's bell, repeated at irregular but frequent intervals.

Many have stopped to enquire the occasion of this ringing, to discover that during July all Dodge Brothers' dealers are thus signalling every completed delivery of a car. A constant, nation-wide peal has been the result, for every salesman in the organization has been eager to "ring the bell" as often as possible, and the public also has responded by buying Dodge Brothers' vehicles in volumes, outstripping any July in their history.

EUGENE P. DURGIN TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

Representative Eugene P. Durgin, one of the most popular young men of the South Boston district, announced his candidacy for re-election to the House of Representatives from Ward 7, old Ward 10.

FOOT CONTROLS AUTO LIGHTS

The newest engineering feature and a most satisfactory road illumination for night driving, is the depressible beam head-lamps of the Greater Oakland Six, operated by a foot control on the floor board which raises or lowers the light beams.

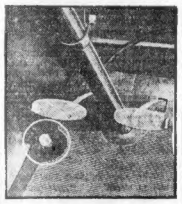

This new light not only affords oncoming motorists the courtesy of no glare or blinding lights, but also provides the driver the greatest convenience because it can be operated without shifting one's position or taking the hands from the wheel.

This latest contribution to convenience, courtesy and safety is accomplished by the use of a special type lens and a special type reflector used in combination with a double filament lamp.

The special lens used provides a wide diffusion of beams for illuminating the sides of the road, turns, ditches and sign posts, while the special reflector provides for the raising or lowering of the main driving beam. The lamps, bulbs and other parts are stationary. The change in the raising or lowering of the beams is made entirely by shifting the current from one filament to the other in the bulb. This is operated from a conveniently placed foot button on the toe-board near the clutch pedal. The beams of light are controlled by simply pressing the foot button which operates a rotary switch. Thus the driver may depress the beams and by again pressing the control raise the beams to a driving position.

For city driving or for long cross country touring, the new control feature gives the driver road illumination a great distance in front of the car as well as a spread to illuminate the sides of the road.

CHEVROLET IN TOUR RECORD

Lowering the fastest train time between the Pacific Coast and Omaha by approximately two hours, Mason Jurgensen, 21, of Los Angeles, drove a Chevrolet roadster 2020 miles between the two cities in 56 hours, 47 minutes. He was officially checked out at Los Angeles and in the Nebraska metropolis by Western Union executives.

This feat establishes an automobile record from the Pacific coast to Omaha.

Jurgensen stopped only to eat, take on fuel and change one tire on the way. He picked up a nail on the New Mexico desert, that being the only mishap experienced on the entire trip. His record time as given above includes all stops.

The young pilot was accompanied on his dash two-thirds of the way across the United States by Joe Ridley of Los Angeles.

On the return journey to the Coast Jurgensen added further glamour to his driving achievement by lowering the Omaha-Denver mark from 15 hours, 31 minutes, to 14 hours flat. Harold Beyers, of Omaha, was passenger and relief driver on the way back, Ridley remaining at Omaha.

The youth's demonstration is proof that transcontinental touring has become practical for the average motorist. Roads are good and danger has been eliminated as a factor.

"Transcontinental touring is a mere ride around the block in these days of high-powered light cars and wonderful roads," Jurgensen declared.

FIRST WHIPPET CARS OUT

With the completion in San Francisco of a series of general meetings which started in New York City on June 17 and ended in the Coast City and in Dallas, Texas, on July 13, the sales department of Willys-Overland, Inc., has finished the most carefully organized distribution plan ever carried out in introducing a new model to the automobile buying public.

Under the direction of John N. Willys, president of Willys-Overland, Inc., and of L. G. Peed, general sales manager, meetings have taken place in all important distributing centers and the distributors and master dealers have driven away with the new Overland Whippet into their respective territories. by those cars in the hands of the representatives who attended the meetings is estimated at 558,000 miles, and complete records of the trips are on file in branch organizations.

The planning of the distributing plan involved a study of transportation methods which is without equal in the history of the shipment of automobiles in this country. The completed cars were shipped from the factory into the various distributing centers where the meetings were to be held and the timing of the shipments was such as to assure the arrival of the cars one day before the meeting in each location.

REVERE CHILD KILLED BY AUTO

Gaily waving a cone of ice cream as she stepped into the street on Park avenue, Revere, Constance Della Rossa, of No. 37 Spring avenue, that city, was run down and fatally injured by an automobile. She was still holding her precious sweets when pulled from under the car. She died within fifteen minutes.

Fred J. Barrett, 21, of No. 30 Hancock street, Revere, driver of the automobile, was held on a technical charge of manslaughter.

Millions now perspire without odor

It is so easy and sure, how can anyone help trying this pleasant way?

HOW often we have been embarrassed, or have offended others by not realizing that perspiration caused odor! Now, all that can be avoided so simply and refreshingly, with such genuine benefit to health, that no wonder Lifebuoy has become the most widely used toilet soap in the world.

All day, now, in filmy dresses or any linen, active bodies can perspire with perfect assurance of lasting sweetness of skin. The amazing, antiseptic cleanness resulting from a Lifebuoy bath doesn't hide odor—it removes the cause.

It protects health, too

The delightful feeling of freshness following a Lifebuoy bath, is all the proof you'll ask for that Lifebuoy has removed from your skin dirt and germs that spread disease. You just know that cleanness so antiseptic, so convincing, must mean protection.

Its very scent is proof

Don't compare Lifebuoy to other kinds—mere prettily tinted toilet soaps. Lifebuoy is a soap to be taken seriously—not sentimentally. Its purpose is hygienic. Your liking for it will grow from its amazing power to cleanse, its benefits to your skin, its instant lather of creamy suds. Above all, you will become fond of its honest, antiseptic scent that disappears with the rinsing, leaving only a delightful suggestion of absolute cleanness. It's what makes Lifebuoy so truly different—the sure proof of a new kind of cleansing action essential to health and assuring lasting daintiness.

Extremely economical

And all this added protection costs you nothing extra—it's free. Lifebuoy costs no more—probably less—than the soap you are now using.

Get Lifebuoy today. You'll know it by the red box and the cake—orange-red, the color of its pure palm-fruit oil.

MILLIONS LOST IN FLORIDA STORM

Jacksonville, Fla., July 28 (A.P.).—The West Indian hurricane which Monday crossed from the Caribbean Sea to ravage the Bahama Islands, and the lower east coast of Florida, hammered today at the sea gates of the upper peninsula.

Calm followed by steadily rising winds presaged the advent of the hurricane as it swept into new territory, leaving behind it distressed shipping, wind and wave damage which may run into millions of dollars and paralyzed lines of communication. Behind a wall of gale-swept seas the fate of several ships was hidden.

At least six vessels were said to be in the vicinity to render aid which had been prevented last night by high seas.

The tropical radio station today reported that the Steamship West Harshaw reached the Italian steamer Ansaldo San Giorgio Secondo, in distress, off Jupiter Inlet at 6 a. m., and was trying to get tow lines aboard to rescue the crew.

At several places along the coast the hurricane winds reached an intensity of 100 miles per hour. A wind velocity of 70 miles an hour caused damage estimated at a million dollars in Palm Beach and West Palm Beach, where forty yachts and houseboats sank in Lake Worth. Along Ocean boulevard and other sections of the Winter playground a wreckage of trees and boats was strewn. Damage was done to sea front property.

Cop Ordered to Probe Break in Own Home

Captain Timothy F. Leahy of Station 3, East Cambridge, assigned Officer Herbert Sinclair to locate the burglar who ransacked the house at No. 529 Cambridge street, East Cambridge, Monday morning and stole $20 in gold, a small diamond ring, and a gold wedding ring. It was Sinclair's house that was entered.

BANKRUPT CITY OF 40,000 LETS POLICE GO

Warren O., July 28 (A.P.).—Financially embarrassed to the point of dire poverty, the city of Warren, with its 40,000 population, by Saturday night will find itself without a police department, reduced to one fire station and faced with a public subscription to buy tires for one of the fire trucks.

By an emergency ordinance which the City Council passed last night the police force of sixteen men will go out of existence Saturday. As it is, the policemen and firemen have received no pay for two months.

Sheriff Smith, of Trumbull county and his deputy will patrol the streets and enforce the law in the city. The sheriff accepted the job from the council and promised he would do the best he could.

And in the meantime a committee will solicit the business men of the city for funds to maintain the fire department. The income from whatever fines are assessed in police court and from city licenses will be used to meet the back salaries of the policemen.

Lighting facilities will be maintained through a proposed tax of six cents per front foot for street lights, the tax to yield a sum estimated at $35,000 a year.

The growth of the city from 10,000 in 1910 to 40,000 in 1926, without a corresponding increase in revenue is blamed for the present situation.

"SHAME" DEATH VICTIMS VILIFIED BY DEFENSE

Tia Juana, Mex., July 28 (I.N.S.).—The trial of the four men accused of attacking Clyde and Audrey Peteet, which resulted in the two girls and their father and mother ending their lives rather than face the world, was continued today. The first day of the trial, yesterday, was marked by an uninterrupted shower of vilification directed against the Peteet family by the defendants.

Blast Kills One, Hurts Six

Madrid, July 28 (I.N.S.).—One person was killed and six seriously injured today when an explosion in a small drug store laboratory blew out the entire front of the building.

Dempsey's Wife Will Return to Screen

LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, July 28.—Estelle Taylor has decided as long as her husband, Jack Dempsey, is to fight Gene Tunney for the world's heavyweight championship, she might as well do a little for the family honor herself. Her particular plans are contained in a two-year contract she signed with John Considine, Jr., and Roland West of Features Pictures Company.

Estelle Taylor

From where I sit it looks to me as if Estelle's first role under the new contract will be as Rudolph Valentino's leading lady. And although it took considerable coaxing to make Rudy see the good points in "Cellini," according to the powers that be at United Artists Studios, he has at last consented to bring the famous appreciator of women to the screen.

Just to show what one picture will do for a player, Considine saw Miss Taylor in "Don Juan" and lost no time in getting her signature to a contract for Features Pictures which, of course, means United Artists.

Cecil De Mille also saw her as "The Arch Prisoner," and he had a Lucrezia box test of her made as Mary Magdalene. Thinking there might be a possibility of Considine's loaning her to De Mille for this role, I made inquiries, but he intimated while it was possible, it was not probable.

FORTY-THREE YEARS' EXPERIENCE on the stage ought to be long enough to give May Robson a film background. It has taken her twenty years to decide to utilize her stage experience, and now that she has taken the plunge, she is going at it with a vengeance.

Her debutante role will be in "Pals in Paradise," a Metropolitan picture, and she plays, I am told, a role not unlike the one she made famous in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary." Marguerite De Le Motte and John Bowers are featured with her.

Which reminds me of the old, old question: "When are Marguerite and John going to get married?" Some of their friends hint that the ceremony already has taken place, although no confirmation has been forthcoming

And now another word about Miss Robeson. It has not yet been decided whether she or Trixie Friganza will bring "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" to the screen. De Mille has in mind for her a part in "Turkish Delight," Irvin Cobb's story.

MAY McAVOY IS A LUCKY GIRL. A few days ago the papers were filled with tales of a complete nervous breakdown. Yesterday word came that she had so far recovered as to be able to resume her work at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios on "The Fire Brigade."

This is the first time in my life I have ever heard of anyone suffering from this complaint being able to return to normalcy in such a short time.

MAY ALLISON IS NOT TO BE MILTON SILLS' leading woman after all. May is not temperamental, but she knows what she wants and usually gets it.

May Allison

She found that the part in this picture was not suited to her and rather than play a part which would in no way react to her advantage she not only stepped out of the cast but out of First National. Such strength of character and courage is worthy of a Carnegie medal.

Nathalie Kingston, who was originally placed under contract by First National, will have the place left vacant by Miss Allison's resignation.

TRUCK DRIVERS HAD better not read this. It may interfere with the progress of their business. Others may read it if they care to. John Philip Kolb, thirty-nine years old, six feet seven inches in height and weighing 225 pounds, was a contented truck driver, busy and happy at his trade.

One day Earl Hudson, the director, had him taken off the truck and converted into a movie actor. Of course, there was a little training in the interim, but, anyway, to make a long story short, Mr. Kolb is now a movie actor in good standing.

And furthermore, he has been signed on a long-term contract with Associated First National. His first picture Milton Sills is making, which is now called "The Splendid Outcast," its title having been changed from "Men of the Dawn." Well, what's a title among friends, anyway.

'MODERN' ANTIQUES WILL BE BARRED BY U. S.

Washington, July 28 (A.P.).—The weakness of Americans for purchasing antiques or anything labelled "antique" has aroused the interest of the government and a consequent investigation resulted today in a warning to customs agents to be more wary in designating "antiques," which are allowed free entry.

Two recent investigations revealed that the signer of a certificate of antiquity on an article in Japan "knew nothing whatever about the particular merchandise, nor about the general subject of artistic antiques."

J. D. Nevius, acting director of customs, said:

"The average Japanese dealer is willing to sell as antiques any other objects he may have and to execute any kind of a statement regarding them that his customer may desire."

RUMANIAN PRINCESS IN ROCHESTER; QUEEN COMES

Rochester, N. Y., July 28 (A.P.)—Princess Margaret Chilla of Rumania is the guest of friends here, resting preliminary to arranging details for the expected visit to America this Fall of Queen Marie of Rumania.

DEMAND 'MA' QUIT AT ONCE

Austin, Tex., July 28 (A.P.).—Gov. Miriam M. Ferguson's defeat in Saturday's primary and her announcement that she will retire from office this Fall, has resulted in demands from her Democratic opponents that she resign immediately in agreement with her promise made during the recent campaign

Attorney-general Dan Moody, who defeated Gov. Ferguson by more than 110,000 votes, charged she was not living up to her promise to resign at once if he led her by one vote. Moody declared, however, he was powerless to force the governor to retire. "It is for the people to determine how and when their demand expressed with the ballot box shall be complied with," he said.

Governor Ferguson in a proclamation calling a special session of the Legislature for September 13, said she would not resign until matters before this session had been disposed of.

SOVIET LEADER SLAIN, REPORT

Warsaw, July 28. (I.N.S.).—Rumors of grave happenings in Russia were current here today. One report stated that M. Agapoff, member of the central executive committee of the Soviets, had been assassinated and that the assassins had escaped.

Another report was that Leon Trotzky, former Soviet war lord, now at Twer, was preparing to rally troops loyal to him in order to protect himself and his friends from attacks directed from Moscow.

Copenhagen, July 28 (I.N.S.).—M. Zinovieff, deposed head of the Communist party, was arrested today in Moscow, according to the Moscow correspondent of the newspaper Berlinske Tidende. The report stated that Zinovieff has been interned for an indefinite period.

It was explained that the arrest of the Communist leader was done with the object of preventing him from reaching a compact with his adherents to fight his deposition.

The Taxi Dancer

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

A Thrilling Story of Night Life and Night Clubs; A Mad Whirl of Adventure

Joslyn's dark eyes were hostile. "No, thank you," she said to Rogers, "I'll remain standing if you don't mind."

Joslyn Poe, daughter of a proud, but impoverished Virginia family, wants a career, not marriage. Her mother wants her to wed. The wild blood of a line of daring women runs in her veins. She wants adventure. A secress tells her of the "wildness" in her blood. She goes to a dance. She determines she will settle her problem that night—to marry George Ransom, well-to-do, but no dandy, or—go to New York in seek of adventure. She meets a stranger at the dance.

Milton Stein, the stranger, advises Joslyn to go to the city and to dance. Joslyn, hungry and discouraged, is heard weeping by Kittie Lane, a manicurist. Kittie gets Lee Rogers, a friend, to invite them to dinner.

While the girls are at the table with Rogers, James Kelvin movie star, attemps to cultivate Joslyn's acquaintance. There is a near row with Rogers. Kelvin goes away leaving with Joslyn a sense of some strange influence over her. A few days afterward Kittie is brought home blind from bad booze. Joslyn rushes to Stein's Academy to take a job as a "Taxi Dancer" to care for Kittie. In the academy she meets Stephen Bates, a man-about-town, who offers to go to Kittie's help.

Kittie's life and sight are saved by the doctors secured by Bates. They both go to a party at Bates'. Kelvin is there. He kills Bates in a quarrel.

Kittie saves Joslyn by telling the police that the death row was over her.

With Kelvin hiding in her apartment Joslyn is called by the district attorney. She bests him. Police watch her flat. She quarrels with Lee Rogers.

CHAPTER IX.

THE hour was well after nine when Joslyn emerged into the wintry night air from the district attorney's office. On the way to the subway she crushed down the urge to look back to see if the suspicious man—presumably a detective—was following her. Already the jungle guile of the hunted was upon her and she moved on with the nonchalance of perfect innocence. She was, she decided, as intelligent and resourceful as . . . the police.

Her effrontery with the district attorney, now that she thought of it, amazed her. She had been as cool as—well, an experienced criminal. And her guilt in concealing Kelvin . . . the shameless thrill of her amour . . .

These things to Joslyn, as she puz-

30,000 U. S. Legion Vets Going to Paris Convention

ATTACK ON TOURISTS IGNORED

24 Ships Will Carry "Ambassadors of Good Will"; Many From Boston

Paris, July 28 (A.P.).—The French franc weakened slightly in the early hours of trading today. It opened at 39.39 to the dollar and 194 to the pound, but declined to 41.55 and 202 at 11 o'clock.

The slump continued during the trading on the Bourse, and the franc closed at 42.09 to the dollar and 205 to the pound.

Indianapolis, July 28 (A.P.).—Despite demonstrations against tourists in Paris, plans for the American Legion's ninth annual convention there in September, 1927, are going forward, Bowman I. Elder, national chairman of the convention committee, said today.

"The fact that a few irresponsible persons in Paris have taken advantage of the franc's fall to vent their feeling on a few tourists will not prevent our program," Mr. Elder said. "The convention will go far to strengthen the already cordial relations existing between America and her war-time ally. Our Legionnaires will be 30,000 ambassadors of goodwill."

Mr. Elder said the Legion had received a cordial invitation from former Premier Briand, that the French foreign office has a special bureau which devotes itself entirely to the problems incident to moving, feeding and housing the peace-time army and that the railroads of France and Belgium have granted a fifty per cent. reduction in fares.

The Legionnaires will sail on twenty-four chartered ships from Montreal, Boston, New York, Hampton Roads, Jacksonville, Charleston, S. C., and Houston or Galveston.

U. S. Men Place Wreath on Damaged Seeger Monument

Paris, July 28 (A.P.).—A delegation representing the Association of American Volunteers who fought with the French armies today placed a wreath on the Alan Seeger statue on the Place des Etats Unis which was damaged by Nicholas Jarovenko, a Russian laborer.

A card attached to the wreath expressed the regret of the veterans for "the act of vandalism committed by an irresponsible person."

Jarovenko, who mutilated the figures of an American soldier and a French poilu at the foot of the statue, told the police he did so as a demonstration against America because of various grievances, ranging from the sentencing of Sacco and Vanzetti in Massachusetts to the exchange crisis.

Although the American Ambassador, Myron T. Herrick, had intended to sail for the United States on the Majestic today, he has decided to remain her until early next month, when he expects the political and financial situation will be more settled. His son, Parmalee Herrick, and family are sailing on the Majestic.

WIFE KILLS SELF AFTER REUNION

Mother Finds Lynn Girl Unconscious From Gas; Had Made Up With Husband

"So long, I'll see you again, see you again some day.
For, after all, the world is small and we'll meet along the way.
Good luck to you, God bless you, too,
But not good-by I'll say;
So long, I'll see you again, see you again some day."

The above anonymous verse, scrawled on the last leaf of an old copybook, was the farewell message of 19-year-old Mrs. Helen Saunders, who, following a reconciliation with her husband, took her own life in the home of her mother, Mrs. Arthur J. Hewin, No. 445 Chatham street, Lynn.

With a gas jet open the young woman was found unconscious on the pantry floor by her mother, who fears that had the police arrived with a pulmotor her girl's life might have been saved.

Mrs. Hewin, who had returned to the house from a shopping trip, summoned Officer Quayne, who called the police ambulance, stipulating that the lung motor should accompany it.

The mother said the ambulance failed to arrive, and when medical aid reached the house her daughter was dead.

TRAPPED BY TABLE.

The police believe Mrs. Saunders resented on her act while semi-conscious, and attempted to leave the pantry, but a table on which she leaned overturned, trapping her.

The verse was found in an old composition book which Mrs. Saunders had used when in school. There was no dedication and it was unsigned.

According to the mother, Mrs. Saunders and her 22-yearold husband, cemented their reconciliation after a two-months' separation by going house hunting Monday night. Neighbors said they parted at the Hewin door with the young wife in tears. Saunders was heard to remark that he would see her next day.

Two years ago the girl, then just past her sixteenth birthday and graduated from Peabody High School, where she was prominent, eloped with Saunders and they were married in Peabody. Until two months ago they lived together, and a baby daughter had blessed the union. Then came the separation.

HAPPY OVER REUNION.

Grief stricken, the girl wife just this past Sunday was lifted from the depths of despondency to the crest of the wave of joy by reconciliation with her young husband. Sunday and Monday the two met and talked over their plans for resuming life together.

Then came the finding of the girl dead, a suicide, Medical Examiner Reed asserts. Neither mother nor husband can understand her act.

Mrs. Hewin said that in the past her daughter had complained to her of too much "interference." Sander is an only child.

TO BUY NEW FURNITURE.

When they separated the young husband placed their furniture in his mother's home. He told his young wife they would have to leave the furniture there, and buy new for their own use.

But the girl wife had shown no despondency, only wild delight, at the prospects of rejoining her husband and baby.

MOSQUITO BITE HERO GETS $1,200 U. S. PENSION

Washington, July 28 (A.P.).—Clyde L. West, who volunteered to submit to the bites of infected mosquitoes during the study of yellow fever in Cuba in 1900 and was stricken with the disease, has been rewarded by the government for his heroism in the campaign to exterminate the scourge.

The War Department announced that Congress had ordered that West be paid $100 monthly for the balance of his life "in special recognition of the eminent service rendered, the suffering endured and the permanent disabilities contracted by him in the interest of humanity and science."

STRAW HAT IS THUGS' NEMESIS

New York, July 28 (Universal)—Dropping of a straw hat by an alleged bandit during an auto chase led to the rounding up of the gang, the police say, that staged the spectacular Roosevelt Hospital holdup and other robberies.

The police swooped down on an apartment at No. 205 West 13th street and arrested five youths. The sixth member of the supposed holdup band is dead, while the seventh is still at large, with police net closing.

The number tallies with that of the thugs who held up Roosevelt Hospital, July 1. They drove up to the hospital, which is in the heart of Manhattan, in a blue sedan. Six leisurely walked into the institution, while the seventh remained at the wheel of the car, smoking a cigarette and reading a newspaper.

The holdup was enacted in the manner of building experts following an engineer's blue print, each man to his post. One covered the telephone operator, another the entrance to the cashier's cage, a third commanded Joseph E. Hudson, the cashier to open the door, while still another thug covered Robert Heir, Hudson's assistant.

The robbers collected pay envelopes with $8,007, leaving $15,000 behind, through the presence of mind of the cashier.

SUITOR KILLED, WOMAN HELD

Montreal, Que., July 28 (I.N.S.)—E. B. McCoy, a rug salesman of Newark, N. J., was shot to death here early today.

Shortly after the shooting the police arrested Kathleen Hardman of Wiarton, Ont., who, it is alleged, had recently complained bitterly to friends of McCoy's attentions.

The story starts in Newark, where McCoy became infatuated with Miss Hardman.

Miss Hardman, resenting these attentions, left Newark three months ago for Montreal, whither McCoy followed her. The shooting, which resulted in the death of McCoy, is believed by police to have followed an altercation between the couple.

McCoy, police said, was a married man.

GOVERNORS IN LAST SESSION

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 28 (A.P.).—The first Western Governors' Conference will close here today after three days of discussion of problems faced by State executives. State finances, State rights, prohibition and uniform State legislation were the subjects of the principal addresses.

Uniform State laws and a debate on prison-made goods and their relation to the industrial market all form the subject of the session, with George B. Young of Montpelier, Vt., president of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, and Governor Franklin S. Billings of Vermont scheduled as the speakers.

In the evening the Governors plan to leave for a tour of Yellowstone Park. They will also visit the Salt Creek and Teapot Dome oil fields.

STRIKE LEADER WEISBORD SEIZED ON KNIFE CHARGE

Passaic, N. J., July 28 (A.P.).—Albert Weisbord, youthful leader of the textile strikers here, today stands accused of carrying a folding knife with a three and a half inch blade as a concealed weapon.

The knife was found by police on the floor of an automobile owned by Michael Grabonski of Garfield, parked in front of strike headquarters in Garfield during a mass meeting. Weisbord denied ownership of the knife when arrested here and charged police with having "planted" it. He was released in $25 bail. Weisbord has been arrested several times.

MENJOU TO PAY WIFE BIG SUM

Film Star Ordered to Give Her $500 a Week Pending Trial

Los Angeles, July 28 (Universal). — Ordering Adolphe Menjou, screen sheik, to pay Kathryn Menjou $500 a week for her support pending trial of the husband's divorce suit, Judge Harry A. Hollzer broke all local alimony records today.

Menjou was not present in court but was represented by counsel. Although Menjou had previously stipulated that he would abide by any court order made in his absence, Attorney Joseph Scott entered a mild protest.

"Is this a proper way to start off a matrimonial breach, by allowing this wife $24,000 a year," inquired Scott.

EARNS $5,000 A WEEK.

"But Mr. Menjou earns $5,000 a week," interposed Milton Cohen, attorney for Mrs Menjou.

"Our information is that it is $4,-000 a week," remarked Scott.

Mrs. Menjou ended the controversy by declaring that it was $5,000 or more a week that her husband received. She said she had failed to receive support from him since May 1. At that time she was receiving $300 per "week," but she insisted that the least she could maintain her home on was $500 a week.

LARGER ALLOWANCE MADE.

After Mrs. Menjou produced a letter dated Dec. 12, 1925, which she said was in her husband's handwriting, and in which an offer of $500 a week was made, Judge Hollzer made the larger allowance, and an additional $3,000 for attorney's fees.

A tentative offer of about $175,-000 had been made to Mrs. Menjou as a property settlement, it was stated in court. This offer is being considered by her and her attorneys.

In Menjou's complaint, filed some time ago, he charged his wife with cruelty, alleged she was conceited and made unpleasant remarks. Mrs. Menjou filed an answer denying the charges.

FIGHT GAME FROM THE INSIDE--TOLD BY JACK KEARNS

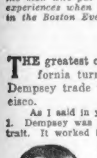

Dempsey Wins Battle With Leading Heavy on West Coast

THIS is the fifteenth chapter of Jack Kearns' thrilling story in which he replies to the charges of Jack Dempsey. It is the first time that the man who put Jack Dempsey on the pugilistic map tells of his experiences when he was a prize fighter. Read this story every day in the Boston Evening American.

By JACK KEARNS
CHAPTER FIFTEEN

THE greatest crowd that ever saw a four-round fight in California turned out that night to see Gunboat Smith and Dempsey trade wallops in the old baseball park at San Francisco.

As I said in yesterday's article we were on the short end at 2 to 1. Dempsey was a little nervous but he has always exhibited that trait. It worked in conjunction with the speed-up style I had urged on him. If he was nervous, you can bet the other fellow always was too.

Jack Kearns

My last word to Dempsey, before the bell, was "tear at him and keep tearing!" Don't let your chin come up from your left shoulder for all the money in the world. Remember this fellow will kiss you on the chin with his right if he sees it. Now go and good luck," I said as I squeezed his arm affectionately.

The bell! Dempsey sails in like a bull dog. What a fight it is but to my horror, I see Dempsey beginning to straighten up and trade rights. And I see a crack at Willard fading. He had forgotten all about the weaving in, and the swaying that we had spent so many hours teaching him.

If the Gunner could feign him and make him step back, he'd knock Jack cold. He was up there, a mark for a right hand sock if the Gunner could work him into position. And you can bet your boots that he was going to do just that. You can't fool around with a hitter of Gunner's ability and experience. I didn't want to shout instructions then. It might rattle him.

Mighty Gunner Flattens Dempsey

The Gunner edged in and in and in. I knew it was coming and so did Kelly at ringside. He was calling for Jack to keep his chin down but I guess there was no hearing him. The crowd was going wild. They were seeing a great punching duel.

The Gunner hadn't put over the big one yet. There was no escaping it, for Dempsey had come up, a mark for it.

Jack Dempsey

The Gunner feigned, bluffed to lead a left to the belly and Jack stepped back a few inches, dropping his guard a bit as he did.

Bam! Over it went! The punch landed cleanly on the point. What a sock it was? Kelly and I shook like cold pups. We grabbed for each other, lost our balance and tumbled from our little perch on the steps leading into the ring right out on to the floor.

Kelly was first up shouting: "What a belt and how he took it. It's all right Doc. He can take it."

When the punch landed, Dempsey quivered all over. But he had a fighter's instinct. He felt right in, fighting before the Gunner could set for another.

The Gunner worked desperately to spear Jack with another right, but before the referee could separate them the bell rang.

There was quick work to be done. Kelly t\d I rushed across the ring and carried Dempsey to his corner. He was dead on his feet when we got to him.

I slipped the smelling salts under his nose and the old Spider was working like a demon all along the line. Still he snored. If ever there was a man out in his corner, it was Dempsey. That before the bell rang for the second round, he came to. He was himself again and Kelly and I shouted words of advice into both of his ears.

"Son, you're the next champion of the world. You've got this fellow dead in his chair over there. Tear when the bell rings and keep tearing. Keep that head bobbing and he'll never hit you with another right sli night. The bell rang and they went to it.

A fight in all its glory. The best I ever saw. Man ranted in crazy delirium. Gone mad, I tell you. They had seen Dempsey going and now saw him coming back and driving the dangerous Sailor all over the ring.

Victory Sways as Dempsey Fights

Dempsey went right on to victory. Man what a fight. When the final bell came, Jim Griffin raised Dempsey's hand and they nearly tore the place down.

Those who had been kidding me about my next champion of the world were the first to spill themselves over the ropes.

Kelly and I rushed Dempsey to the dressing room. He sat there strangely quiet. He didn't seem to be in on the celebration at all. Kelly remarked that he had got a sweet sock in that first round. Dempsey didn't even look up. His head was down and he was looking at the floor. He remained this way long after we had started to unlace his fighting shoes.

Jess Willard

Suddenly he looked up and said:

"Well Jack, I lost, eh?"

"What do you mean, you lost. You won kid. You beat the great Gunboat Smith who was robbed of the decision over Wilson in the same ring. That makes you the heavyweight champion of the world boy. You are the champion right now. You proved it tonight."

"And," broke in Kelly, "you can "Take it" on the beard. Boy he kissed your chin with a beaut and you didn't bat an eye."

Dempsey didn't seem to realize that he had won a great fight.

We got him dressed finally and long afterwards, on the ferry boat going to Oakland, he spoke up and said;

"What kind of a fight was it, Jack?" I remember that punch now. But I don't remember anything that happened after it. My mind is a blank on everything after that punch.

You know that stove over in the gym? Well, I thought somebody had dropped it on my head when the Gunner hit me. I couldn't understand how they had dropped it down on me without my seeing them lift it. That's how I felt about it. It must have been a dandy."

"You took it boy. That proved to me then and there that you're the champion. No next about it. You are the champion."

Still they want him licked. They sent for Carl Morris and little Jack, now around 175 pounds punched big 240 pound Carl all over the place for four rounds. I stepped right out after that and claimed the title. I billed Dempsey as the only fighting champion the world has ever known.

Jack wanted to go home to Salt Lake City to see his folks and we parted for the first time.

Bill Tilden Tells Tennis Secrets

The world of tennis, having learned from its woman champion that Helen "played and mastered the game for fun," now may know from Tilden, repeating champion of the courts, that only the mastery of a particular stroke which he believes brought him victory over "Bill" Johnston but also how an aspiring tennis player may lift himself out of the "ordinary" class. The romance of the game, as Tilden has known it, was disclosed to Alan J. Gould in response to a request of the general manager of the Associated Press. Mr. Gould is a member of the New York staff of the Associated Press, which copyrights the interview.

New York, July 28 (A.P.).—"Little Bill" Johnston, if he never knew it before can learn and now learn of the stroke "Big Bill" Tilden had to acquire and master seven years ago in order to defeat Johnston at tennis, and Tilden not only gives credit to Johnston for having been influential in pointing out Tilden the latter's weakness in the game, but, in an interview with the Associated Press, he also expressed his gratefulness to Johnston, who, Tilden says, had greater experience and "match temperament" in 1919, when for the first time the two men met in contest.

DEVELOPED BACK-HAND.

"It was Johnston's ability to pound my back-hand stroke to a pulp," said Tilden, "that taught me I had to have an offensive backhand stroke.

"It was the difference between my back-hand of 1919 and that of 1920, plus additional experience, that enabled me to win the Wimbledon tournament, carrying with it the world's title and the title, later the American championship.

"It is just this difference in backhand strokes which I believe has provided the margin of my victories over Johnston through the past six years."

For the mass of young tennis players who aspire to lift themselves out of the ranks of the ordinary, Tilden has a formula for success, compounded out of the elements of his own career of unprecedented triumph on the course.

Tilden was willing to spend a half-dozen years overcoming obstacles and developing the game that has lifted him to the top. There was concentration of a single variety track in this too.

STARTED WHEN 8 YEARS OLD.

"I started to play as soon as I was old enough to hold a racquet at the age of five," he began. "I was pretty good as a youngster, for my age, and got a great deal of incentive from hoping as a ball boy at the Germantown Cricket Club, watching Parke and Dixon, the British stars, play such Americans as Larned, Clothier, Beals Wright and Ward.

"My brother, Herbert, seven years my senior, was one of the best young players in the Philadelphia district at the time. The most valuable thing he did was to give me a general bawling out after every tournament I played in. That made me sore and I tried to do better."

"From the age of 12 to about 19 or 20," he went on, "I played pretty badly. I was still as a hack. My shots were not particularly sound. I was just a 'swatter-type.' At about 18 I made up my mind to remodel my game, which at the time was very erratic off the ground and had as its only redeeming feature a fast service. I realized it wouldn't get me anywhere and that I needed a sound ground game. On that theory I analyzed my play along common-sense, scientific lines and for the next half-dozen years, or until I was 25, I worked on an all-court game.

FIRST TEN IN 1918.

"Everyone, including my friends, told me I was foolish, that I couldn't be both a base-line and net player, but fortunately I was pig-headed enough not to believe them and kept at it. As a result in 1918 I got to the finals of the national singles, losing to Lindley Murray, and found a place in the 'first ten' for the first time.

"In 1919 Bill Johnston and I began our long span of rivalry, meeting four times altogether. I defeated him the first time we met at Newport, and also won in the East-West matches, but he turned the tables in the only court tournament and again in the title round of the national singles.

"Two factors accounted for Johnston's decisive victories—first, his great experience in match competament; second, his ability to pound my back to a pulp."

Applying the object lesson of his career, Tilden went on:

"I am convinced that any player who wants to can master any stroke in the game. And no player will hold the American championship in the future who has any pronounced weakness. Therefore, any young player who aspires to be a national champion must be willing to go through the long, tedious and at times seemingly hopeless grind of learning the fundamentals of an all-court game.

STYLE MUST BE ACQUIRED.

"Style, too, must be acquired. By that I mean correct form, which is a combination of racquet technique and footwork. The ability to keep the eye on the ball at all times and correct court position are absolutely essential to success.

"Every player, to reach the top, must acquire these fundamentals, yet these won't make a champion. It's the willingness and the knowledge of when to sacrifice to gain this form that makes a great champion.

"Bill Johnston, a model of style, will sacrifice comfort, looks and dignity to win a crucial point if that point happens to mean victory or defeat.

"It is this ability, which I term the ability to 'scramble,' the determination to go after everything which carries most players out of the mass of the good into the select circle of the great. Lacoste has it. So have Richards and Borotra, but they are few among many. Dick Williams, for example, is not willing to 'scramble' and, as a result, has failed to reach many of the heights to which his spectacular game otherwise would have carried him.

"I cannot too strongly urge young players to attempt the impossible in recoveries. At least 75 per cent. of the shots considered impossible are actually recoverable, if the effort is made for them. Let no player cramp his style by worrying about the gallery thinking he is playing to the grandstand when he is trying for sensational recoveries."

BELIEVES IN IMITATION.

"I am a great believer in imitation, not that a player can accurately copy another's stroke, but in attempting to do so he is apt to discover a valuable stroke of his own. My forehand drive, which actually bears no resemblance to J. O. Anderson's, is the nearest to it which I am able to produce. My backhand slice, which has no family connection with that of J. J. Armstrong, former Harvard and Intercollegiate champion, started as an imitation of his famous slice.

"In attempting to develop the game of various Juniors I have found the road to greatest success lies in taking their natural game and modifying it for orthodoxy without destroying its individuality. The greatest danger of professional coaching lies in the fact that every professional strives to make a duplicate of his own game, whereas a sound teacher should treat each pupil as an individual case, to be developed along different lines, rather than as a standardized product.

WOMEN ARE DIFFERENT.

The guide lines which Tilden stakes out for boys would not, however, apply to feminine players, he believes.

"One hears discussion of the relative merits of the tennis of leading men and women, but their games are entirely different," the champion pointed out.

"To me the ideal type of game for a woman is the baseline game. I consider it impossible for a woman to play an all-court game for three sets. They are not physically able to do so, and cannot consistently go to the net through three sets and stand it."

Tilden deftly parried a request to explain some of the playing peculiarities that has been so conspicuous in his many close matches, his frequent uphill victories in international play. He did so because he feels this is a peculiar attribute of his own game and that no explanation or analysis of it would be beneficial to any other player.

"Tell us, then, what match was your hardest?"

"Unquestionably my five-set struggle with Rene LaCoste in the challenge round of the Davis Cup play last year," replied the champion.

AGAINST THE PRO GAME.

"What are your views as to professional tennis?"

"I do not believe in professional tennis. My faith and interest is in the amateur game, but at the same time I think professional tennis might succeed. Personally, I have never considered turning professional and have no thought of it now. Necessity would be the only thing that would interest me in it."

C. "Coin Crazy" Fyle, who helped to fill up some of the air space in Red Grange's pocketbook, has extended his sphere of influence across the Atlantic, and is on his way to let Suzanne Lenglen inspect the glorious eagle which parks upon our American dollar.

As for that celebrated bundle of fresh and feminine temperament, she is sunk in a quagmire of perplexity. The eagle is a fascinating bird. She has modified her former assertion that American tennis courts and American dollars are not for her.

In fact she has become remarkably honest.

"I might say this morning that I would never turn professional and then wake up tomorrow definitely decided to turn professional," says Suzanne.

That's real honesty. We won't know Suzanne's mind, and neither will she, until she meets the bird face to face.

RUBE OLDHAM, veteran pitcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has passed from the Big Leagues—another instance of an Old Master reaching comparative oblivion immediately following his greatest triumph.

Last Fall Oldham was called upon to twirl in a crucial pinch of the World Series. He came through—his veteran's heart and brain standing by him in the test. Less than a year later and he's through.

Casey Stengel, George Whiteman, Dexter Maila, among others, all heroes of World Series contests in their last shots at the big time, must know how Oldham feels.

AMERICAN tennis faces a crucial test in the fast approaching Davis Cup matches. The news that France won a clean sweep in her match with England in the European zone is none too assuring.

The famous French quartet, Borotra, Lacoste, Cochet and Brugnon, are like their own native wines. They grow better with each succeeding year. Both of our homebred stars, Tilden and Richards, know how good they are.

Now is their time to strike. And with the continued strain upon the amicable relations which have existed between France and America, the chances are that feeling in the Davis Cup competition this year will run high.

Our players, and in particular, Large William Tilden, will face a double test. If Tilden keeps up the screaming pace he maintained through the Longwood singles matches America will most certainly draw blood.

But Tilden also showed at Longwood that temperament, like courage, is the prerogative of no one nationality or race.

WE ran into "Zing" Surabian the other day. The Medford boy who made such a name for himself on the Williams football team is thinking seriously of trying the pro game this Fall.

There is no doubt but that he would be a valuable addition to any fast outfit. Players who shine on small college teams seldom receive the publicity to which their work really entitles them.

Surabian was the first tackle to decisively stop Gil Dobie's famous Cornell off-tackle play. He did it for two years. In 1923, while only a sophomore, he met his first test. Before the game, if you tapped either of his shoulders he winced with pain.

After the whistle blew most of the wincing was done by the celebrated, Cornell backfield play which vainly attempted to break a hole through the so-called crippled lineman.

His last year he was remodelled into a fullback. That year his versatility was proven. And Medford "Zing" Surabian has a lot of fine football left in him yet.

ARREST CHECKS RACE HORSES IN CANADA

Montreal, July 28 (I.N.S.).—Nine-Sixty, one of the outstanding thoroughbreds in Canada, may not show his first pair of heels to the field again this year.

Nine-Sixty and his stablemate, the veteran campaigner, Hallo, were in retirement today, in the custody of Canadian Customs Officer Daniel O'Grady.

The horses were seized at the time of the arrest of Hank Brannon and Mrs. Brannon, on charges of bringing stolen property into Canada from Florida.

The warrants for the arrests of the Brannons were taken out before Judge Fermult by Fred Lassiter of Tampa, Fla., who is interested in the Tampa Short Jockey Club and other race courses. Lassiter is owner of a string of horses and represented himself as owner of Nine-Sixty and Hallo.

Trying to belt into a loop and placing it about the arms, to hold the arms in position while swing, will reveal several surprising things about the position of the arms throughout the swing when the elbows are thus held in their correct position. Not the least of these will be the position you find the elbows occupying at the finish. With the loop about the arms, you will find the left elbow down at the finish and the right arm projecting more toward straight up. This will happen because the right arm, with the elbows guided correctly by the loop, will strike straight through the ball as it should, while the left arm will travel through on a low lane, following the clubhead after the ball.

DEAN CROMWELL SIGNS FOR SEVENTEENTH YEAR

Los Angeles, July 28.—Coach Dean Cromwell's sixteen-year reign as track mentor at the University of Southern California will not be broken next season, the noted coach having signed up to direct the Trojans next season. This dispels rumors that Cromwell would leave the Trojan institution. "The Smiling Dean" took charge of S. C. track men in 1909 and with the exception of the seasons of 1913 and 1914 has been at the head of the Trojans ever since.

The past season was Cromwell's greatest. His team won the Pacific Coast dual meet championship, second in the conference meet, the I. C. 4A championship and top honors in the N. C. A. He then took his team as the Hollywood Athletic Club to Philadelphia to win the National A. A. U. title.

Mouton to Face Keen Competition

Followers of cycling in Greater Boston will have their first opportunity to view Andre Mouton, one of the leading French paced cyclists tonight when he starts pedalling in the 25-mile contest at the Revere Cycle Track. Charles Verheyen, Clarence Carman, Dan Pichione, Francis Zucchetti and John Gallom will oppose Mouton.

Although Willie Fenn is leading Bobby Walthour, Jr., in the cycling battle for the New England pro sprint championship, having scored 10 points to Bobbie's 6, Walthour is the favorite to land the one-half mile title tonight. Forty cyclists are entered and it may be that a dark horse will lead the field.

PREDICT THIRD I. C. 4-A WIN FOR SO. CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, July 28.—"Southern California will win the I. C. A. A. A. title for the third consecutive time next season." Such is the opinion of Assistant Coach Tommy Davis of the University of California track squad. Davis, who is the dopester of the Trojan team and who forecast all scores last season within a few points, bases his opinion on the victory of Charles Borah in the 100 and his second place in the 220 at the National A. A. U. meet early this month. This means that Borah will win both 100 and 220 at the I. C. 4A next year, and that will give us the meet with our returning sure points," says Davis.

Phelan Threatens to Withold Licenses of Boxers; Muldoon Says Fight Is on [illegible] as the controversy [illegible] for the course [illegible] On the surface it has been smoothed over by the action of the State Athletic Commission yesterday in granting permission to Rickard to stage the fight. Underneath, however, there is plenty of turmoil.

PHELAN HOLDS WHIP HAND

The responsibility now rests on Colonel [illegible] Phelan, chairman of the license committee. James A. Farley, chairman of the commission, was outvoted by Commissioners Brown and Muldoon yesterday in [illegible] of approving Rickard's application. But he has not ceased fighting.

Before they can do any boxing in New York, Dempsey and Tunney must [illegible] for licenses. The license committee met yesterday and among other things voted that all applications for licenses must be made direct to the committee.

If this procedure is enforced Dempsey and Tunney cannot make application through the boxing board where a friendly majority [illegible] but must [illegible] Phelan and his associate, D. Walker Weir. [illegible] Phelan is known to look with extreme disfavor on Dempsey, especially since the champion "ran out" on Harry Wills after agreeing to come to a definite understanding with the commission on that match.

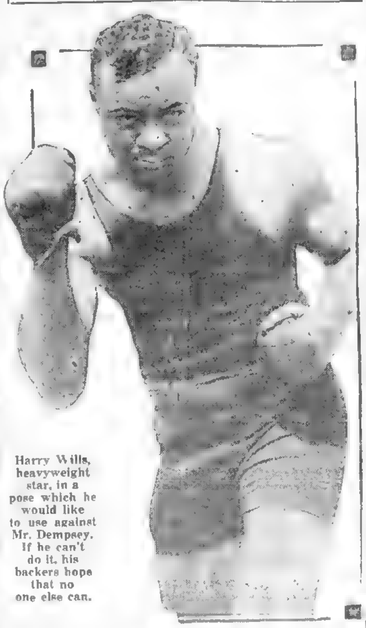

EXTREME HASTE IMPERATIVE

It is not likely that Rickard will [illegible] action [illegible] way [illegible] on the fighters' licenses before the next meeting of the license committee.

Tex is faced with the necessity of getting his show under way immediately. He must establish training camps for Dempsey and Tunney, get a ticket sale started and the ballyhoo heated up.

For a fight of such importance six weeks are hardly sufficient to arrange the thousand and one details. If Dempsey and Tunney are licensed by the license committee, the battle will begin.

HARRY IS IN THE WAY

Harry Wills, heavyweight star, in a pose which he would like to use against Mr. Dempsey. If he can't do it, his backers hope that no one else can.

WILLS MAY YET KAYO RICKARD'S PLANS
According to the latest advices from New York, Chairman Farley of the State Athletic Commission, and firm backer of Wills to fight Dempsey, still holds the ace card and may force Gene Tunney out of the race. The License Committee, headed by Colonel Phelan, is with Farley, and may deny licenses to both Tunney and Dempsey.

Hincke said the commission had been asked several times to sanction ticket prices ranging from $3 to $20.

"It is the commission's opinion that $20 is entirely too much to be invested in a fight ticket. We have good shows with prices ranging from $1 to $3, from $1 to $5 and from $3 to $10. We fail to see how any other promoters can give the public, who are the ones to be considered, any better shows for a greater investment on single tickets."

Red Chapman to Box Honeyboy Finnegan

By JACK CONWAY.

RED CHAPMAN, deprived of his right to win the world's featherweight championship by the autocratic actions of the New York Athletic Commission, will sign to battle Honeyboy Finnegan in a ten-round bout at a monster testimonial to be tendered the family of the late Johnny Mahony, Boston newspaperman and sports promoter, at Braves Field next month.

Jack Conway

This contest will virtually be a world's championship affair. Chapman has defeated Johnny Dundee since the latter dethroned Eugene Criqui, while Kid Kaplan twice defaulted to Charlie Cardio's sturdy little battler.

Chapman refused to have anything further to do with the New York elimination tournament for featherweights when his bout with Babe Herman was indefinitely postponed on the ground the Californian was ill.

The New York Commission emulated the tactics of the czars of old when Chapman tried to get redress. He was ordered to fight Herman on August 10 and when he informed the high handed and high-hatting boxing bunglers that he could not enter the ring at that time on account of his proposed match with Finnegan in Boston he was told his title claims would not receive any further consideration.

CHAPMAN refused to respond to the whip and left the office of the New York Commission while 200 of his followers, who had made the trip from Boston to New York to see the battle, demanded fair play. The brave boxing solons called upon the police to save them from giving any explanation of their Jesse James conduct.

It is expected that Chapman and Finnegan will sign within a few days for their Braves Field bout.

The Massachusetts Boxing Commission is expected to permit the Mahony testimonial to be staged under the direction of one of the Boston clubs. We do not believe that Messrs. Foote, Buckley and Lane will wish Mrs. Mahony and her nine fatherless children to pay the $800 license fee usually required of a committee desiring to stage a single show.

The Massachusetts Commission should also proclaim Chapman world's featherweight champion. Our Bay State boxing board has had a working agreement with the New York Commission and in the past has tried to avoid offending the New York body. It would seem that the time has arrived for the Massachusetts Commission to take the lead and see that justice is done to Chapman.

IF NECESSARY, the Massachusetts Commission should break with the political ring that is ruining boxing in New York. Massachusetts, always a leader in civic reform and in other progressive movements, should cease following the leadership of a commission which has made itself the tool of unscrupulous promoters and the laughing stock of people who know the inside workings of the boxing racket.

Let Massachusetts show its independence of the New York boxing ring by proclaiming Chapman world's champion and recognizing Red's coming bout with Finnegan for the title.

Millbury Ball Club Faces Shakeup

Millbury, July 28.—Owing to a disagreement with the baseball committee of the athletic association here, W. W. Windle, president of the Millbury A. A., which body backs the Millbury team of the Blackstone Valley League, and Jesse C. Burkett of Worcester, the coach, will offer their resignations at a meeting to be held Saturday night.

Mr. Windle, a prominent business man and sportsman, made his baseball debut with the Millbury team to put baseball in this town on a firm financial basis. In this, he says, he has succeeded. The team is in second place, also, in the league race.

The committee desired changes in the coaching position, which Windle, strongly backing Burkett, objected to.

300,000 TICKETS FOR CAL. GRID SEASON

Los Angeles, July 28.—Three hundred thousand tickets will be placed before football fans for the coming football season by the University of Southern California. Cardboards to that number were printed this week for the entire season of eight home games. Twelve home affairs last season drew a total of 279,491 paid admissions and Trojan officials believe the 1926 schedule of eight games will outdraw the last season. Both the Stanford and Notre Dame games are expected to break the record of 89,542 paid admissions registered last year at the Stanford-California game here.

Every Cigarette At Its Best Because "It's Toasted"

LUCKY STRIKES are made from the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, perfectly blended.

Besides this supreme quality of leaf tobacco as compared with all other cigarettes—"IT'S TOASTED".

Just what does this mean—this phrase, "IT'S TOASTED"?

The tobacco is oven toasted at very high heats for 45 minutes; then chilled with the moisture completely restored. The toasting brings out the hidden flavors of the superbly fine tobacco. The chilling seals in these flavors; seals in, too, the moisture that has been restored. It all acts like a cold plunge on the pores of the body.

That's why LUCKIES taste so good. Why LUCKIES are always fresh when they come to you. Why millions prefer this uniquely fine cigarette.

Budget Chat No. 112
By MARTHA LEE.

THERE are still a few more things [illegible] I want you to [illegible] yourself and judge by [illegible] whether or not [illegible] will prove a friend to your fam[illegible] finances.

We will cons[illegible] of Budget [illegible] ment. [illegible] your children [illegible] your family [illegible] tion, charity [illegible] cial life, vacation, gifts?

Do you kn[illegible] what percentage of your in[illegible] for development?

Are you letting this money be frittered away for [illegible] only passing [illegible] or are you spending your [illegible] while things which will always remain of [illegible] in the minds of your family?

Is your family life well balanced with opportunity for work, sleep, play and self-improvement?

Do you plan to give some service to others either through charity or by [illegible] money or strength with those in need?

Do you keep your social life on a plane that is consistent with your other expenditures?

Is your family life growing by the accumulation of material things or of ideas?

Are you spending more for luxuries than you are saving?

Are you using your savings to purchase luxuries that you really cannot afford?

Are you remembering that luxuries should be purchased from your current income or from a special fund which you have saved particularly for luxuries? They should never be bought from your regular savings.

Is your income giving you a reasonable amount of health, happi[illegible]ness and comfort?

Are you buying the ability to work [illegible]?

[illegible] producing efficient citizens? Are you wide awake to op[illegible]?

If you are, you have of course, long before now filled out the budget coupon on this page and sent it [illegible] for a budget [illegible] to fit your particular requirements.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Miss L. L. is about to be married [illegible] how to manage [illegible] asks for a budget for $75 a week with $60 a month for rent.

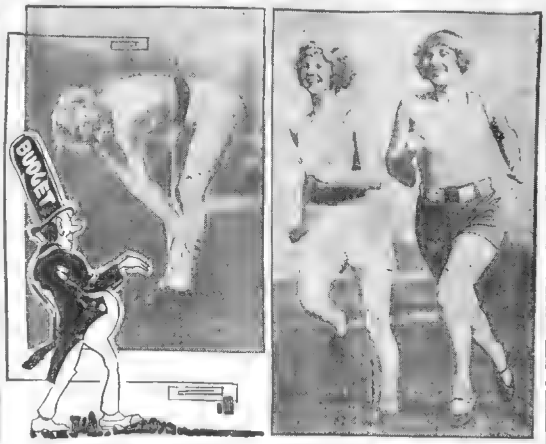

A $75 budget will allow you $[illegible] for shelter, including business carfares, $18.75 for food, including business lunches, operating $[illegible], clothing $11.25, savings $[illegible], personal $11.25.

About $3 or $4 a week is allowed out of operating for coal. If your house is heated this amount can be added to the shelter fund or to savings. I am sure you can save something on your food [illegible]. Probably [illegible] year at [illegible] thing, too.

Mrs. R. [illegible] asks for a [illegible] every two weeks also insurance.

Do I understand that $10 is a housekeeping allowance? If you will give me your total family income I can make an intelligent budget for you. The other information request[illegible] is going forward.

Mrs. J. M. [illegible] cannot seem to save on $28. Asks for economical recipes and a budget. Three children, 16 [illegible] and 8 years of age, is buying a home.

With Budget as your trainer, you can't fail to be a winner in the race against Frenzied Finance.

Practical Hints on Spending by a Plan

The recipe books are going along to you. The $28 budget for five will line up savings $2, shelter $5, food $12.50, clothing $3, operating $3.50, and personal $2. Out of the shelter fund will come the interest on the mortgage, taxes, insurance and repairs on the house. The payments against the principal will come out of savings.

Mrs. N. M. says she is always falling behind with expenses. Husband's wages are $27 weekly and $10 from boarder. Of this, husband gives her $20 to supply food, $1 weekly for gas and electricity, $1.35 weekly for insurance and 8 cents for laundry. Has to ask him for at least $2 extra each week for clothing. Family of three adults and three children.

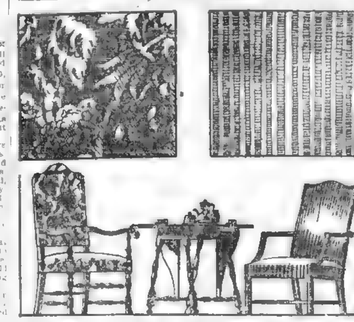

The only way for you to beat Frenzied Finance, I believe, is to budget your total family income, $37. Of this $17.35 weekly should supply ample food for six, including milk. This will leave $2.5[illegible] for savings, including insurance, $[illegible] for rent with business carfares, $[illegible] clothing, $3.50 for operating and $3.64 for personal.

Mrs. J. D. N. asks for a budget for $30 a week. Eight in the family, including six children. Pays $24 a month rent. Husband doesn't get paid for holidays or other [illegible] days.

I do not think you can safely budget more than a $2[illegible] [illegible] weekly. A standard budget for $[illegible] would ordinarily allow $1[illegible] for savings, $5.50 for shelter and business carfares, $9 for food, $4.[illegible] for clothing, $4.50 for operating and $3 for personal. Your family, however, will need at least $16 for food which means you will have to borrow $7 from the other allotments.

Furnishing the Home

The Making of a Husband, an Interesting Serial, By Ann Lisle

I WONDERED if Jim did not realize this, but his next words made me sure that he considered McCandless a dull and negligible fellow with whom he could do just as he chose.

"The one most interested in getting Arlette out of the way is Nicholas Perry, of course," Jim said suavely and as if he felt it his duty to speak in words of one syllable. "He was disinherited by the w[illegible] which makes her an heiress."

"Well what good is it to him to get Arlette out of the way as long as Haley and the air [illegible] and know about the will that gives the money to Arlette?" the Sheriff asked [illegible].

"That's so," Jim said, and now his voice was unmistakably bank[illegible]

And if you don't [illegible] mind to tell me, I'm likely to find 'em out in good time."

He looked at Jim shrewdly. And in this moment I realized that Jim and McCandless were playing a game of which I knew nothing save that each of them was underestimat[illegible]ing the other. [illegible] question in my mind: Why does Jim [illegible]

"Perhaps you do not tell anyone where it is you come?" May half asked, half insisted.

"There's no one here to tell," I laughed.

"But if some one he come, you don't tell him," May insisted.

I agreed and my promise was put to the test a few moments later when Nicholas Perry telephoned to ask if I'd take him out for a few hours in the car which he and Jim run in common.

"Later on," I said. "I'm busy now."

"The Red Lamp," Mary Roberts Rinehart's Great Mystery Story

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

EVEN had Cameron suspected something, I believe he would have come to our seance. His other attempts to enter the house and secure the manuscript had failed. And any day some bit of mischance, a mouse behind a [illegible] this book of [illegible] the phrasing [illegible] his earlier works would be in the hands of the police.

With what secret eagerness he accepted my invitation we can only guess. Halliday [illegible] had already discounted his acceptance in advance.

"I knew he would come, of course," he says. "He wanted to get in. We offered him not only that, but darkness to cover any move he wanted to make. It had to work out."

And here he explains the necessity of having the criminal caught flagrante delictu. It had to be shown, he says, not only that Cameron had written the manuscript but that it was he who had [illegible] it where it lay.

Martha Lee's Reliable Recipes

PUZZLED—to know what to serve for breakfast and dinner these days? Perhaps these suggestions will help:

For breakfast warm mornings, for the fruit course, choice of rhubarb, cantaloupe or chilled peaches. For cereal, cream of wheat, grape-nuts, toasted corn flakes or puffed rice.

For the main breakfast dish, broiled fish, ham omelet, broiled roe with bacon or creamed fish. For breakfast breads [illegible] berry muffins [illegible] with honey or pop[illegible] muffins.

For warm weather dinners, you can take your choice of fruit cocktail, cold consomme, crabmeat or [illegible]ster cocktail.

For vegetables, creamed new potatoes with parsley or candied sweet potatoes.

For dessert hot blueberry cakes [illegible] strawberry parfa, [illegible] with whipped cream, [illegible] with small fred [illegible]

Let one quart of milk, one cup of double cream and one cup of sugar be heated to between 90 and 100 degrees F. Stir in one Junket tablet crushed and dissolved in a tablespoon of cold water. Keep the mixture in a warm (100 degrees) place until it jellies, then let cool and freeze. When ready to serve, pour over the syrup of preserved skinless figs and garnish with figs.

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS. Cream [illegible] one-quarter cup of butter or [illegible] shortening and one-third cup of sugar. Add one well beaten egg.

Sift together two and two-thirds cups of flour and four teaspoons of baking powder and one-half teaspoon of salt, saving one and one-quarter cups of flour to dredge the blueberries which are added last. The dry mixture is added to the first mixture alternately with one cup of milk.

BAKED HADDOCK WITH ONION AND CUCUMBER. Dress a three pound haddock and stuff with bread squeezed out of hot water, seasoned [illegible] butter, two [illegible] of capers, one teaspoon [illegible] teaspoon[illegible] ful of [illegible] a pinch of [illegible] the [illegible] Bake on [illegible] in a hot oven [illegible] over the top for [illegible]

[illegible] with seasoning to taste. Both onions and cucumbers should be soft by the time the fish is cooked, then stir quickly [illegible] one beaten egg [illegible] and garnish with [illegible] red chili peppers.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

Here's Quick Relief for SUNBURN

GREAT DAYS, these, for outdoor sports—and great for sunburn. Fortunately, there's quick relief right at hand, in that package of baking soda on the kitchen shelf, ARM & HAMMER BRAND or COW BRAND. Both brands are the same: both are pure bicarbonate of soda of the highest quality, made by Church & Dwight Co., Inc.

As First Aid for SUNBURN cover the affected parts with a paste of baking soda (bicarbonate of soda) and water. When the moisture has been absorbed from the paste, the fire will be gone from the burn, and the danger of blistering will be lessened.

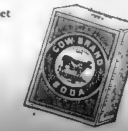

A helpful and effective way to remove the paste after it has dried out is to bathe in a tub of lukewarm water in which a pound of baking soda (bicarbonate of soda) has been dissolved. This baking soda bath is of itself a soothing treatment for sunburn.

A package of ARM & HAMMER BRAND or COW BRAND baking soda should be in every kitchen, in every medicine chest, in every camp kit—it is helpful every day in countless ways—get a package today at your grocer's.

TARNISHED WINGS -:- BY BEATRICE BURTON

Story of a Boston Girl Who Liked Jazz Music and the Bright Lights

CHAPTER XXXVII

(Copyright, 1926, Johnson Features, Inc.)

ON week days the Locke family always had breakfast in the big, bright, cheerful kitchen.

But the next morning, which happened to be Thursday, when Merry ran downstairs she found the dining-room table all decked out in silvery white linen and the best china [illegible] herself, in a clean lavender linen dress.

It was the first time since Dad's death that she had worn anything but black. [illegible] at the table and then at her.

"Who's coming?" she asked. [illegible]

[illegible]

She stopped talking as the door opened and Mr. Hoff [illegible] and sat down in Dad's old place at the head of the table.

"Good morning," he greeted Moms, who was [illegible] "Good morning," [illegible] turning his heavy [illegible] Merry.

Merry's smile was gone [illegible] as soon as it came to her face. It made her bitterly unhappy to see this stranger sitting in her father's place [illegible] his napkin out of her father's silver ring, leaning back in her father's old carving chair.

She drank her cup of coffee as quickly as she could, and got up to [illegible]

Before she reached the door, it opened and Jinny came down [illegible]

[illegible]

Moms was looking rather down at the mouth tonight, and she was wearing her black dress again. She seemed depressed.

'I Had a Letter from Bill Erskine Today,' Said Merry.

"I had a letter from Bill Erskine today," Merry said, after five minutes of silence. "The last time he was here we had a little spat and I was surprised to hear from him so soon."

Moms' lips twisted. [illegible]

"Oh, Moms, don't ding-dong at me all the time [illegible]

From the hall came loud ringing [illegible]

"I'm going out for a little while," she said breathlessly [illegible] appeared in the doorway [illegible] "Half past seven and that child not home yet!" She shook her head [illegible]

Mrs. Jones' eyes seemed to snap as she began to talk.

Mrs. Jones broke in. "She's been after Derrick [illegible]

When She Had Gone Merry Sat Thinking Over Her Words

"He used to want me to run away and get married, before he and Jinny started to go 'round together," she went on, with dignity. [illegible] with him for a license—I don't believe you can accuse Jinny of roping Derrick into marrying her, Mrs. Jones. I think it was six of one and half a dozen of the other."

[illegible] "No, no," she said. "Jinny was over at our house the other day, talking about this Mr. Hoff [illegible] boarding here. She told me your mother was shining up to him [illegible]"

Had Jinny really run away because of Moms and Mr. Hoff [illegible]?

Merry could not believe that [illegible]

Arms and the Girl--Yesterday and Today

DRAWN BY NELL BRINKLEY

HOW times do change! Nowadays mothers are constantly talking of the way things were done in THEIR day. I wonder do they ever stop to think about the buggy rides they had when they are fussing over Daughter going automobiling with "that young man." In Mother's day the young man wound the reins around the whip, and had both arms free with which to encircle the tiny waist, and Dobbin ambled peacefully along. Nowadays Daughter travels the same roads in an automobile and the poor young man has to keep one hand on the wheel and both eyes on the road. So it can't be so dreadful, can it?

In Mother's day, girls were lovely [illegible] clinging vines, brought up with the idea that some nice strong man would some day come along and let them cling and entwine themselves gracefully around the sturdy oak to their heart's content.

Now-days girls are as athletic as their brothers, and look on men as companions and pals—not superior beings to be looked up to and worshipped. And [illegible] happy-go-lucky, albeit [illegible] there you are! NELL BRINKLEY.

Science for this new hygienic pad that discards easily as tissue — no laundry

THERE is now an exquisite successor to the old-time "sanitary pad." A new way that offers far greater protection. A way that ends the old problem of disposal.

Eight in 10 better-class women now use "KOTEX."

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Deodorizes, thus ending ALL fear of offending.

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Package of 12 costs only a few cents. Proves old ways a needless risk. In fairness to yourself, try it.

Life's Sunny Afternoon

"Grow old along with me, The best is yet to be."

WITH her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women of middle age say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Those who have learned through their own experience the merit of this dependable medicine are enthusiastic in recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

A woman in Nebraska was troubled with headaches for fifteen years. She writes: "I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have felt my health steadily improving. Today, after taking your medicine for almost a year and a half, I can say the headaches have left me. It is seven months since I had the last one. I am continuing the Vegetable Compound. I am feeling fine now."

This woman is the mother of six children with a large house to care for. Her name is Mrs. Adolph Bratke, 4316 South 13th St., South Omaha, Nebraska.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

WHILE thousands of people are suffering from the heat this Summer, one fellow is keeping his apartment cool by painting arctic scenes on the walls.

SOME of the snow storms are so realistic that he almost got pneumonia.

THE first night he looked at the pictures he had to wear an overcoat to bed.

HIS wife sat in the parlor and nearly shivered to death.

THE pictures of the icebergs looked so natural that he went down stairs and started a furnace fire.

THE paintings even fooled the Airedale. He got in a fight with one of the polar bears.

THE dog stayed up all night barking at the Eskimos on the wall paper.

HE took one look at the living room wall and then went home for his skates.

HE frosted all of the windows so that it would look like a blizzard outside.

HE also carried out the effect of Winter by painting the lawn white.

IT was so realistic that the owner of the house started to shovel the snow off the sidewalk.

ONE of the little kids in the family thought it was Christmas.

HE stayed up all evening waiting for Santa Claus.

A ROXBURY man is keeping his living room cool by sprinkling cracked ice in all the easy chairs.

HE has to thaw the company out before they go home.

ONE fellow was frozen to the sofa.

ARCTIC wall paper is wonderful for the Summer. There's no need of suffering from the heat when you can get a brush and paint your own weather.

DAILY SHORT STORY

TWO THINGS THAT DON'T MIX

By Jack Woodford

ELLEN enjoyed her position with the Atlantic Importing Company better than any she had ever had previously.

True, it was just a stenographic position, but there were interesting details. For instance, because she still remembered her high school French very well, she interpreted and wrote the replies to all of the French correspondence.

And there was Walter Trent, head of the French division. He was not at all French; he was American. Not quite 100 per cent., it is true, for he was not an Indian; and, for that matter, the dignity, too, though it was not exactly dignity either, for it was not in the least offensive, but quite the reverse; one might better call it reserve, Ellen thought.

Ellen worked harder in this position than she had ever worked before, because she loved the work [illegible] herself, but there [illegible] to it, too, though [illegible] it yet, even to herself, but the fact of the matter was that she also loved Walter.

This, however, was a little private and personal matter that Ellen did not share even with her subconscious mind, for she felt quite sure that Walter thought of her only as an extra adept amanuensis; a cog in his splendidly functioning office machinery.

Often she would look up to find his dark eyes upon her, at which moments he would instantly avert his eyes, clear his throat and become tremendously, even violently, busy.

However, after he had come back from his two months vacation in France, it seemed to Ellen that something very strange had come over him.

Immediately he came back into the office, he began treating her queerly. Naturally because he was liked by all, everyone in the office rushed to greet him when he came back. He greeted them warmly, holding, however, the air of calm reserve which he always employed toward everyone in the office.

When it came time for Ellen to shake his hand and tell him that she was glad to see him back again, and that he was looking very well, he all but cut her dead.

True, he touched her hand, and murmured something, but his eyes flashed at her almost angrily, and a moment later he handed her a sheaf of French correspondence to transcribe, with a crisp: "Attend to that as soon as possible, please, Miss Winslow."

She attended to it as soon as possible, even sooner, and took the work to his desk, more perfectly and neatly done than ever any work she had done before. He merely looked at it, tossed it aside, and without a word, went back to his work.

Day by day, things grew worse. It came to the point where he would hardly speak to her, merely laid work down upon her desk and walked away, and when she would finish it and take it to him, he nodded, without looking at her.

Somehow, in some way, Ellen believed that she had offended him. She worried about it night and day, for it was the most splendid position she had ever had, and she was more than anxious to make good at it—at least she told herself that this was the prime cause of her worry.

And because she worried night and day over the turn events had taken, her work began to suffer. Typographical errors slipped by her attention no matter how sedulously she examined and re-examined everything before turning it over to Mr. Trent. Finally one day he called one of the other stenographers to do over what Ella had done.

This was the last straw. Ellen went to the washroom and cried for half an hour, knowing full well that Mr. Trent would not like the idea of her having absented herself for that long a time from her desk.

When she went back, she knew that she looked a fright, and when, upon entering the room, the switchboard girl told her that "Mr. Trent wanted to talk to her," she was not at all surprised. He was crisply final.

"I have decided to let you go, Miss Winslow," he said. "The cashier will give you two weeks in advance, and—"

"Oh," breathed Ellen, "please, what have I—"

"I was coming to that," interrupted Mr. Winslow. "If you will be kind enough to meet me for lunch in the main floor restaurant in half an hour I will tell you why I am letting you go."

Her heart a chaotic ruin, Ellen waited downstairs until 12 o'clock. Mr. Trent lead her to a seat over in a corner of the restaurant. His whole manner had changed.

"Miss Winslow," he began. "I let you go because, because, well, I am a strict believer in office propriety. I'm afraid that it is almost a fetish with me.

"I think that the employer owes it to his employes to treat them always formally; if one doesn't, there is talk . . . I have had that trouble before.

"The plain fact of the matter is, Miss Winslow, that I can no longer treat you formally. I, I—found out something during my absence in Europe . . . that is, I sort of knew it all along—but then, when I missed you so. . . .

"Well, what I came down here to tell you is that not only are you fired, but you don't get any references, because I won't have you taking another job—that is, you see . . ."

She had never dreamed that the dignified Mr. Trent could be so like a little boy. She put out her hand and covered his own, not able to see him in such an agony of bashfulness and discomfiture.

"I see," she said evenly, "perfectly."

"And you'll forgive me for being such an awkward ass about it all?"

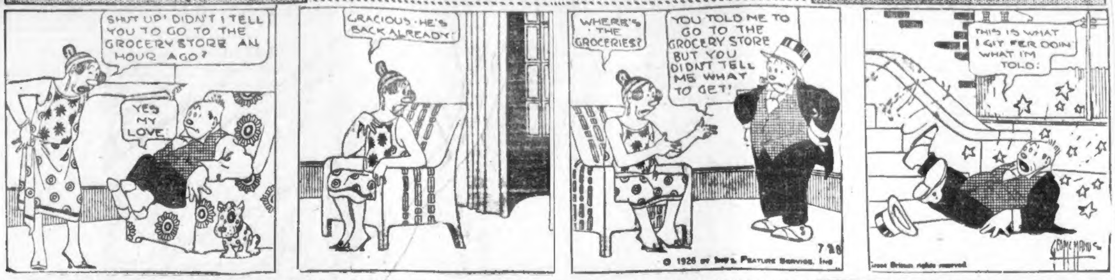

"Yes, if you'll say just one thing. I want to hear it."

He blushed, and nearly choked on the three words, but he got them out, manfully.

RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

IN Mother's house the rooms are cool and sweet on sultry Summer days. When all along the dusty village street the heat makes golden haze. In Mother's house a perfume lingers yet; it may be from the scent of many blossoms, pinks and mignonette, or from old joys, long spent. In Mother's house a quiet reigns always, as 'tho its portals know that men have need to turn from tumult's ways, sometimes, and find peace so. In Mother's house the world seems far away and far all worldly things, but ever through its signs of faint decay there sounds a stir of wings. In Mother's house, with scent of rose and pink, and peace, and sunlight clear, there comes a stir of wings sometimes, I think, the angels are so near.

LITTLE BOBBIE AND HIS PA

By William F. Kirk

PA took Ma & Me to a Outdoor Show. I guess Ma thot it was going to be sum kind of cirkus or sumthing, but it wasent a cirkus at all, it was all about Fishing & Fish Poles & Flies & Plugs & Reels, etc., & Ma beegan to yawn the minnit she saw what it was. But me & Pa liked it a Heap.

I am in the market for a new rod & tackel, Pa said to one of the gentlemen wich was running the show

Rite this way, sed the man. We have sum swell rods for a century note.

How much is a century note, sed Ma, that sounds like a hundred dollars to me.

It is a hundred dollars, sed Pa, but you need have no fear, sed Pa, I wuddent put that much in fishing tackel.

You bet you wuddent, sed Ma, kind of quick. Why, sed Ma, you wont go fishing three times this season. & besides, sed Ma, you have a attick full of fishing tackel at hoam, rods & reels & baskets & rubber boots & goodness knows what else, sed Ma. I am falling over it all the time.

We have sum fine trout rods speshully for ladys, sed the man to Ma.

I am not inter-ested, sed Ma kind of hauty. I nevver waste my time poking around a creek like a littel boy.

That is indeed too bad, sed the man. Sum of the smartest ladys in the 400 like to fish, sed the man.

Reely? sed Ma.

Yes, indeed, sed the man. Missus Asterbilt & Missus Jitney & the Countess Drawjack are keen anglers, sed the man.

Does it talk long to lern? sed Ma.

Certingly not, sed the man. If it did, sed the man, wud such ladys as what I have menshuned go in for it? Why, sed the man to Ma, a brite tipe of lady such as you cud lern to catch trout in ½ a hour, he sed, if she went ware the trout hang out, he sed.

Maybe I will go sum time with my husband, sed Ma.

You wud be talking all the time, sed Pa. You can't catch trout if you talk, sed Pa.

Oh, I see, sed Ma kind of chilly, then I will do as usual, reemain at hoam.

Why doant you talk yure wife fishing with you? sed the man. I used to talk my wife & she liked it a heep. Poor girl, he sed, she fell off a high bank into a swift streem & was drownded, he sed. I nevver had the hart to marry aggenn.

I see, sed Ma to Pa, so you want me to die, sed Ma. Cum on, Bobbie, sed Ma, let us drag yure deer father away from this mass of fishing tackel befoar we go broak, sed Ma. So we went hoam.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

A MAN'S idea of proposing, these days, is merely to drop a cautiously veiled hint, and then let the girl amuse herself working out the crosswood puzzle.

Nowadays, a young woman parts with her first husband as nonchalantly as she parts with her first teeth—in the perfect confidence that another will soon come along to fill the vacancy.

* * *

Fortunately for marriage, every man pictures himself as a dashing lover, but shuts his eyes to the vision of himself as a plodding husband.

The average man's notion of the best time to begin his work is rather hazy; but when it comes to the right moment to STOP working, he has a strong time-consciousness, and a positive clock-complex.

* * *

You can always arouse a man's love by making him jealous—but, it isn't his love of you, dear heart, it's his love of a fight!

The average woman doesn't feel that she has had her share of thrills unless she has been "just saved" from folly or temptation, two or three times.

The sad thing about a Summer resort is that the stage is all set for a beautiful love-scene, the moon hung in just the right place—and nothing to love but the head-waiter.

If you want to know just how much a man loves you, make a date with him that will require him to give up his Saturday afternoon golf, renounce a baseball game, or hurry through his dinner.

The first sign of love is your inability to start your day until you have gotten his call on the telephone.

* * *

STEEL 'MELON' STILL AWAITS RIPENING

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

New York dispatches late Tuesday announced: "U. S. Steel paid only the regular quarterly dividend. No action was taken toward special distribution as has been rumored from time to time."

June 29 in this column we stated: "Recently we expressed the opinion that, if an extra disbursement is to be made in U. S. Steel common, it will not be made at the July meeting. Some readers have taken this to mean that it will not be made either at the meeting in July or at the one in October, but that is enlarging on our original. Future business developments must be awaited before it is feasible ot speak further."

Charles E. Mitchell, head of the great National City Bank of New York, is a Chelsea boy. His father, George E. Mitchell, was a Boston merchant, at one time mayor of Chelsea. President Mitchell was graduated from Amherst, the alma mater of President Coolidge.

Charles E. Mitchell

A Wall Street writer says: Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the New York Clearing House Committee, deserves credit for the more or less revolutionary amendments he has brought about in the operation of the Clearing House since he was elected ot the office last fall. Changes just voted by the association in its constitution provided for the extension of clearing hours so as to afford a continuous flow of interbank credits, the elimination of the compulsory exchange charges by members on out-of-town items and more freedom in fixing interest rates to be allowed on certain accounts. These changes followed institution of a commission charge by members on all Street loans placed for account of out-of-town banks and other earlier in the year which was recommended by the same Clearing House Committee. These are decidedly new departures in the annals of the Clearing House and are due in large measure to Mitchell's progressive ideas. It is remarkable how he can find time to run the National City Bank and the National City Co. as well as undertake a multiplicity of outside interests and duties. His associates say he is a "perfect bear for work," and they all testify to his driving force.

Of course, he has no time for details and in the case of the present changes to be made in the Clearing House the greater part of the responsibility and duty in working out the new arrangements were left to a special committee which Mr. Mitchell appointed. The chairman of this committee was George E. Gregory, vice-president and comptroller of the City Bank. Mr. Gregory and his fellow committee men were at work many weeks on the undertaking. It was obviously quite a job getting at all the ramifications of clearances and exchanges and, of course, reconciling the interests of the various banks. The voluminous report submitted to the member banks on the subject showed this.

Should He Box or Bake?

Career for Your Son Will Probably Be Picked Out by Boy and Circumstances

Sporting columns tell us that Johnny Risko, young Cleveland heavyweight prospect, at one time longed to be a baker. They seem to take it for granted that this boy, who appears in Boston Friday, picked the better career. For fighting Berlenbach he received $8,500, the best money he ever earned. His ring earnings are now totaling around $25,000.

After all is said and done, $25,000 is a tidy sum. But it is not necessarily more than a baker can acquire. A number of Boston bakers have entered the millionaire class. One Jack Dempsey is the only "pro" boxer we recall in all ring history who boasts of a million-dollar bank account. A. J. Biddle, Jr., of Newport in the Summer, is the only millionaire we think of in the amateurs of the squared circle.

Should your boy box or bake?

Well, his career will probably be picked out by the boy and circumstances. Fathers have usually less to do with selecting their boys' careers than is imagined.

Boll Weevil to Boost Cotton?

By WADE ARMSTRONG

Cotton shows every sign of waking up.

For months activity has been lacking, due in a measure to a large crop, declining prices, fear of a large carry-over and another large crop—causing prices to decline to around the sixteen-cent level, the lowest in years. At the latter price, however, the cotton world seems to be interested and has taken all spots and contracts offered. Merchants started to contract for supplies months ahead, making for stability in cotton prices.

While the South planted a record acreage this year, it does not necessarily mean a record crop, because the weevil, other insects and weather conditions must be reckoned with. From the beginning of 1926 the weather has been ideal for insect damage. On an acreage ten million less than that of this year, weevil have been known to destroy six million bales.

• • •

Much is heard of the lack of fruit on the cotton plant. There must be a reason. The weevil usually works several weeks before he is discovered and it is too late when the damage is done. This means a sudden and sensational advance in the cotton market — usually in August and September, when cotton in the past has advanced as much as $50 per bale within sixty days and fortunes made and lost.

This season's exports of cotton will exceed 8,100,000 bales and American consumption 6,400,000, making 14,500,000 bales. With prospects of a further expansion in consumption the coming year, the position of cotton is the strongest in months. Any possibility of this year's crop being less than prospective consumption will create a tremendous buying power.

While prices have rallied 150 points from the lowest levels, they are still four to five cents under those prevailing one year ago and with the trade short of cotton and cotton goods. Recently there has been almost a buyers' panic in cotton goods and heavy buying occured.

• • •

A few years ago, when the prospective crop and carry-over were larger than now, cotton sold above 30 cents. If this materializes, and many believe it will, the boll weevil will be the answer.

Can chain stores and department stores do business at less cost than independent stores?

What is a man to do who has attained success in an organization after long service and who finds himself thrown on the street because of discontinuance of the business?

To whom should an employee be loyal?

Warner James, wholesale druggist of Brooklyn, writes:

"I read with much interest your column on 'New Conditions Call for New Distributing Laws.'

"Merchandise manufacturing and distribution are two different subjects. As it relates to manufacturing, and particularly to such products as steel, economy of production, or mass production, is to be secured in the central control of an organization of several units. The best illustrations of efficiency and economy of operation or the U. S. Steel corporation. Standard Oil companies and the Ford Motor Company.

"Distribution, on the other hand, is quite a different and more complex proposition. I challenge your statement as to the economy of operation of chain and department stores as compared with independent retail establishments. I know the reverse to be true.

"Distribution of merchandise in providing accessibility to each consumer upon demand of any article which may be called for. Sixty per cent. of our population is in towns of less than 20,000, and in the most remote towns and hamlets. Neither the chain nor department stores attempt to or can give complete distribution. This being true is it not apparent that complete consumer distribution is to be had through the independent retail stores?

"I maintain that the growth of chains, with their sinister influence and vicious methods of flimflamming the manufacturers and by their demoralizing method of throttling competition, constitute the most serious menace confronting the country. Control by them would rob the individual of his initiative and practically place in their hands the destiny of innumerable manufacturers now seeking consumer distribution and goodwill.

"Chain and department stores are essentially retail merchants, and big buying power does not necessarily entitle them to wholesale or special discounts.

"The real question is, are we going to permit chains representing less than one-tenth of all the retail outlets dominate or destroy the business of the other nine-tenths?"

Thomas Hart Kennedy of Los Angeles, writes:

"Regarding what you say about loyalty, does not any consideration of loyalty open up the entire problem of personnel, and more particularly the personnel problem of the ambitious? What is this thing loyalty? Does it work both ways? Who is a subordinate to be loyal to, his immediate superior (who may be a rogue), the president of his company, the board of directors, or the ultimate owners of the ultimate owners of the business? If his organization has a duty toward the public, does this 'poor worm' owe any loyalty to the public?

"It might be answered that loyalty to one and to all superiors amounts to the same thing, that the objective toward which all are working is a single objective. But this is not so always. Internal politics exist in many commercial organizations. Often, I think, 'loyalty' is a convenient screen behind which busy executives hide their own deficiencies."

TODAY

one only four days old, killed by heat and the crushing crowd.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW enjoyed his seventieth birthday party, given by the British Labor party. The humorous old Irishman may realize Hall Caine's birthday wish: "May you live as long as Sophocles and, like him, write your best play at ninety."

YOU WONDER that Shaw still keeps going at seventy. Think of Voltaire, who BEGAN his work at seventy, and at eighty-three traveled by stage coach from the Swiss border to Paris, where he was received as king of the intellectual world.

SHAW SAID: "My time is past, my bolt is shot," and when his friends shouted, "No, no," he said: "I wish you could know what my arms feel like as I lift them up."

Shaw is a vegetarian and total abstainer.

Voltaire, who watched the production of his new play when he was 85 years old, drank light wine and ate meat, temperately, as did Pope Leo, who at 90 was in his prime, and wrote a good Latin poem in praise of light red wine.

You will observe with amazement how many men live long WITHOUT the blessing of vegetarianism or total abstinence.

KING ALEXANDER of Jugo-Slavia has his salary raised to $1,000,000, nearly fourteen times the pay of our President, biggest royal salary in Europe except that of King George.

A million a year is nothing compared with the annual income of the late Czar of Russia, and is five hundred times as much as the salary accepted by Lenin, who put the Czar off the the throne and into the ground.

That is one reason why the memory of Lenin ranks above that of the Czar of Russia.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR.'S, two sons come from Europe traveling third class, fare $100 for each. It is hard, as the late Mr. Leeds, tin plate king, said, "to keep the son of a very rich man from growing up a fool." Mr. Rockefeller is one of the rich men doing their best. He makes it a point to have his children study and play with those of moderate wealth or no wealth, that they may become acquainted with American conditions.

If more rich men sent their children to the public schools, fewer rich men's children would lead foolish lives.

KING ALBERT of Belgium eats black bread to set a good example and help the Belgian franc. If that's the best thing you can do, that is the thing to do.

One good idea would be worth more than eating ten tons of black bread. Napoleon Bonaparte ate white bread, wore velvet and ermine, but kept putting France ahead until his British enemies got him.

HOVEY NAMES 'LEGAL' RAILS

Bank Commissioner Roy Hovey has issued a list of railroad equipment obligations which were made legal for investment by savings banks of Massachusetts by Acts of 1926. The law is effective Wednesday, July 28, and provides that a savings bank in this State may invest not more than 10 per cent. of its deposits in issues included in this list, but not over 2 per cent. of such deposits in obligations of any one road.

As the deposits in savings banks here now exceed $1,750,000,000. the maximum amount of money which can be invested in "equipments" is about $175,000,000.

Legal Notices 91

CITY OF BOSTON—Transit Department. Proposals for building Section Two, Dorchester Rapid Transit. The Transit Department of the City of Boston, 1 Beacon street, seventh floor, invites proposals from citizens of the United States and corporations or other legal associations wherein the controlling interest to the extent of at least over one half thereof is owned by a citizen or citizens of the United States, for building Section Two, Dorchester Rapid Transit. This section is located on and near the Shawmut Branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, between Clayton street and Geneva avenue, and is about one half mile in length. It consists of the construction of a road bed, together with station platforms, approaches and passageways, installing concrete floors on present bridges, and certain equipment, such as conduits, manholes, etc., for a two-track surface railway extension of the third-rail service of the Dorchester Tunnel. The work includes alteration and construction of bridges, concrete retaining walls and foundations, concrete roadways, drainage systems, sewers, removal of structures, regrading, etc. A bond of an approved surety company will be required for the faithful performance of the contract in a sum of 40 per cent. of the total bid price. Proposals should be filled out and signed by the bidder on forms to be obtained at this office, enclosed in a sealed envelope, indorsed "Proposal for Building Section Two, Dorchester Rapid Transit," and delivered to the department or to its secretary before 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, August 17, 1926, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read, with a properly certified check in the sum of fifty thousand (50,000) dollars, payable to the city. This check shall become the property of the city if the contract, within the time prescribed after the date of the notification by the department of the acceptance of the proposal and the readiness of the contract for signature, is not executed by the bidder. Proposals must be made in duplicate. The sealed duplicate, without check, is to be deposited by the bidder with the City Auditor, Room 20, City Hall, previous to the time named for opening the proposals. Plans, proposals, specifications and forms of contract can be obtained at this office. A deposit of $25, in cash or by certified check will be required for a set of plans and two sets of the specifications. Mutilation of them will be deemed sufficient cause for the forfeiture of said deposit. The department reserves the right to reject any and all proposals and to award the contract as is deemed to be for the best interest of the City of Boston. By order of the City of Boston Transit Department. A. D. Adair, Acting Secretary.

STOMACH ILLS
Mr. Donat Zak, 585 Main St., Cambridge, Mass., says: "I had been a great sufferer from Stomach trouble for 5 years. I was constipated. Nothing that I ate seemed to agree with me, but would bloat me up, generate gas, and refuse to digest, making me uncomfortable and miserable. I tried various remedies I procured at drug stores and was treated by several physicians without obtaining relief from my suffering until I read of Doctor Daniel J. Walsh and had him treat me. The result of his treatment of my case was so favorable that I am pleased to recommend Dr. Daniel J. Walsh to all who suffer from chronic disease."
The wonderful power of the X-RAY and MERCURY - QUARTZ LIGHT TREATMENT is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonderful results in diseases of every description—CATARRH, DEAFNESS, BRONCHITIS, STOMACH DISEASE, NERVOUS DISORDERS, SKIN DISEASE.
No matter what your disease may be remember that Dr. Daniel J. Walsh gives

Young Lady Typewriters--

How Would You Like a Machine With 600 Characters?

A JAPANESE TYPEWRITER LADY OPERATING A COMPLICATED "HOBUN" MACHINE.

The Japanese language, like the Chinese language, is complicated.

An educated man, to write Chinese or Japanese really well, must know 5,000 different letters. Instead of taking twenty-six letters and manufacturing all the words with combinations of those letters, the Chinese and Japanese have a separate complicated character for each word, and while they simplify it all they can, it would take the average American certainly twenty-five years to learn to write the Chinese characters that must be used by a fairly well educated man.

By simplifying and eliminating, the Japanese have managed to produce a typewriting machine for commercial use. Here you see it with a charming little Japanese "typist" working on it.

This machine has 600 different characters or letters. You see some of them on the base on which the machine seems to rest. Compare that with our machine of twenty-six letters plus a few punctuation and other characters.

The marvellous thing is that this Japanese operator carries in her head the 600 word-letters of her machine, knows their location so well that in spite of the tremendous handicap she can write from forty-five to fifty words per minute.

We wonder that the Japanese do not at once abandon their system of writing and use our alphabet.

They wonder, perhaps, that we don't abandon our out-of-date system of weights and measures and adopt the decimal system, as we have accepted it in our money.

Why Wait Five Years?

We Need Them NOW

The House Military Committee adopts an aviation program recommended by aviators and the War Department. Two thousand two hundred airplanes are promised in the next five years. Actual fliers, not swivel-chair heroes, will be in active command of the air service. So far so good.

But this country could afford to buy the flying machines it needs now without waiting for years. WHY WAIT?

Build them for the postoffice, equip them with pilots, trained in the army, and give the nation reasonable assurance of reasonable SAFETY AT ONCE.

Fortunately President Coolidge and Mr. Davis, Secretary of War, are interested in aviation, and well know that airplanes will be the real power in all future wars.

Perhaps this nation is not, after all, permanently destined to be inferior to France, England, Japan, Russia and half a dozen other countries in air equipment.

The "Tax-exempt" Curse

It Breeds Reckless Spending

The administration is worried about national reckless spending of money by States, cities and counties.

Mr. Mellon cuts a billion off the national debt and the States and cities add three billions to the general indebtedness. The waste could be stopped. States and cities borrow recklessly because their bonds are free of all income tax, and tax dodgers will lend unlimited amounts at low rates of interest to escape taxation. Reckless SPENDING is encouraged.

The piling up of billions of State and local debt could be stopped quite promptly if the "tax exempt" evil were abolished.

Not All Are Newtons

But Little Moses Is Interesting

Columbia University has a fourteen-year-old prodigy, Moses Finkelstein. He specializes in psychology, discusses with men three times his age the INTROSPECTIVE BEHAVIORISTIC and psycho-analytic types. It is all very simple, says he, but it takes a good deal of reading up.

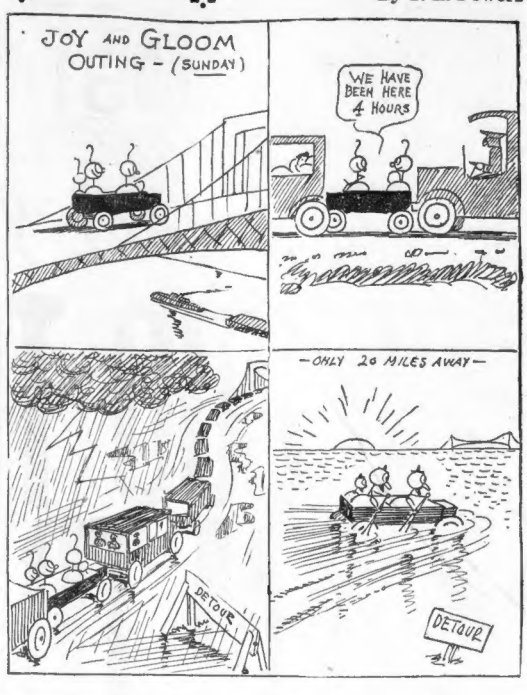

Newton, as a boy, was rebuked at school because he didn't bother with mathematical problems put before him. He was able to do them all "out of his head" instantly, said he didn't suppose such "baby problems" were offered seriously.

Not every youthful prodigy becomes a Newton, but all are interesting. We may be born some day knowing as much as the wisest man of our day knows when he dies.

They Keep Falling Over

By T. E. Powers

'THE WEAKER SEX' IS MOSTLY TRADITION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

MISS ANN BLIVEN has returned from Africa, from the Belgian Congo, after a colorful career as explorer and hunter. She has shot elephants, killed leopards and brought down lions. She weighs but ninety pounds and is twenty-three years old. She recommends big game hunting for nervous women.

There have been many other instances of women who have excelled in physical prowess.

One of the most remarkable explorers of unknown countries is Osa Martin Johnson, wife of the celebrated explorer, Martin Johnson. She has gone into regions such as New Guinea where white men had never been. She has shot big game and has been captured by savages, and often her life has been in danger. She is now spending a few years in the remote wilds of Africa taking pictures of animals.

She is a Kansas girl, and after she was married her husband said to her that he was going away on an expedition and that he was sorry to have to leave her.

"Oh," she replied, "you are not going to leave me. I am going along."

"But," he replied, "you cannot stand the hardships."

She went, however, and was never sick a day, but nursed him through several spells of illness.

There is a movement at present in the United States for the mobilization of girls in training camps by the Army.

There is no particular reason why a girl should not make a good soldier as well as a man. She can certainly hold a gun and pull a trigger. She can navigate airplanes, and do almost any other thing that a man can do.

For many thousand years we have fed upon the tradition of the weaker sex. Conditions in savagery, however, show us that woman, far from being the weaker of the two, is the hardier.

It may be flattering to man's vanity to pose as the protector of women, but it is a question whether that vanity is founded upon good physiological reasons and whether or not the trained woman is not able to take care of herself.

WHEN YOU OVER-ESTIMATE VALUE OF YOUR OPINION

You are very much set up about your own opinions, aren't you? You even grow vehement when opposed in conversation.

You even consider those who differ from your ideas poor in judgment.

You may have a position where you can dictate at your daily work. But that does not entitle you to dictate to the minds of those you meet. There is no reason why they should order their lives to your liking.

It is probable that your efforts have been confined to a comparatively small sphere—you have not rubbed up against many men of real ability and for some reason you don't realize how unimportant your ideas are.

Compare your product with the best in your line.

Be honest in your comparison and you will see that you have much yet to learn. You may find out that your ways and methods are not those of the leaders in your line.

Many of those men are more progressive than you are.

Get out and absorb some new ideas.

You will find that many of those of whom you designate as lacking in judgment, know much that would be of value to you.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS are frightfully worried.

They have just discovered that little Jimmy, aged five, STEALS!

For some time, Mama Thomas has been missing small sums from her purse. Things have been taken from the garage. They suspected the boy next door. Then, yesterday, Dad caught Jimmy red-handed.

Of course they had a dreadful time. They whipped Jimmy, scolded him, told him he was a bad, BAD boy and said he couldn't go to the movies for a whole month. Mama cried until she got a sick headache. Now they're wondering just how long it will be before Jimmy is wearing striped suits and eating at the State's expense.

And all because Jimmy followed his natural instincts!

"But surely it isn't the natural instinct of a pure, innocent little child to be a thief!"

Jimmy isn't a thief. He's a SAVAGE, with the incomplete perception of property rights which all savages have.

Battle for Life

We think of ourselves as coming into life as young angels. We do nothing of the sort. We come into life as young animals, with all our brutish instincts ready to operate. We want to grab anything that pleases us. We want to hurt or remove everything that displeases us. We yield to every fear and every desire. Civilization has, as yet, left slight trace upon our natures.

Nor is this strange. Man has lived for untold millions of years. He has been "civilized" for only a few hundred years.

Prior to civilization man lived the life of a wild dog or a ground ape. He knew no law save that of his own need, and the need of the small tribe with which he traveled. He fought and stole and killed without compunction because only by such methods he could live. There was no "immorality" in such acts for the low-skulled, hairy creature who was, for so long, the only human on earth. He lived in the only way he could.

So men came down the ages stealing and killing in order to preserve their own lives or the life of their tribe. This history of the progress of mankind is the story of just such ruthless warfare—of just such killing and stealing.

For millions of years man lived like that and the mark of it remains on every portion of his body, on every thought and impulse of his mind. And each individual enters life with that savage inheritance.

Expression of Guilt

Little Jimmy was practically as blind as any puppy when he was born. He was also morally blind. He did not arrive with a neat, automatic conscience ticking busily in his little insides. On the day of his birth, and for many days and years afterwards, he had no more moral conscience than a polly wog.

"But that's nonsense" protests Mama and Dad Thomas. "Any one who's bad anything to do with children knows that isn't so. Didn't you ever see that guilty look in a child's face when he's caught? And look at the way they sneak to cover up their tracks. Of course, they know they're doing something wrong."

An older child DOES know that it has "done something wrong," and the age at which this perception comes varies with the intelligence of the child and the training it has received. But a young child does NOT know right from wrong. It simply knows that it will be punished if caught, and the "expression of guilt" is really an expression of fear. Animals have an expression of guilt, too, for animals also fear punishment. But they do not have a sense of social obligation any more than little Jimmy has.

The sense of social obligation must be instilled in Jimmy with love and patience, wisdom and tact. It can't be beaten into him—for brutality only begets more brutality. But he can be shown by means of sensible discipline and reasonable argument that this world has laws which his lawless animal body must respect. And that if he doesn't respect them, he will lose the advantage of being a member of the gang. Gradually, as this fact comes home to Jimmy, he will begin to understand the rights of other people, because they reflect his own rights. He will see that he must be honest if he would expect honesty in return—kind if he would have kindness—brave if he would reap the reward of courage. So, in time, Jimmy will grow a "conscience" and become "civilized."

But he will only become "civilized" if civilization is presented to him as a safe and desirable thing. If his home "civilization" be filled with cruelty, dishonesty and injustice, you may be sure that Jimmy will remain as he was on the day of his birth—a fanged, suspicious animal with no law but that of his own need.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Never write on a subject without having first read yourself full on it: and never read on a subject till you have thought yourself hungry on it.

—Richter.

A resemblance of humor and opinions is fancy for the same business; diversion is a ground of love.

—Collier.

When we desire anything, our minds run wholly on the good circumstances of it; when 'tis obtained, our minds run wholly on the bad ones.

—Swift.

Resolve rather to err by too much flexibility than too much perverseness, by meekness than by self-love.

—Hoskins.

METEOR OBSERVERS AID TO SCIENCE

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

SEVERAL readers have asked for the address of the American Meteor Society, saying that they wish to join it with the intention to become active meteor observers.

This is one of the most promising fields open to amateurs in astronomical work. It is also one that is the least crowded.

To be sure it has no gold mine; there is "no money in it." But it offers a certain honorable reputation and a feeling of satisfaction over being able to add something to human knowledge.

Besides, it is a fine training for eye and mind, and will amply reward anyone by making him familiarly acquainted with the starry heavens.

So I am glad to advise these readers to communicate with Professor C. P. Olivier, at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va., who, I do not doubt, will very willingly furnish them with full information about the meteor society.

I also advise them to stick to their resolution to enter upon this interesting work, for they will surely like it after a little practice.

"Showers" of meteors are not to be seen every night, nor every month, but they are much more frequent than most persons imagine, and occasionally one occurs that comes as a surprise even to veteran astronomers.

Useful Books

Learn the principal stars and constellations visible in the Summer from a "planisphere" or from a star chart. Leon Barritt's monthly star map will be a great aid, or the "Star and Planet Finder," published by him in Brooklyn.

There are also many useful books on the subject. Naturally I know my own best, such as "Round the Year With the Stars," or "Astronomy With the Naked Eye."

The August meteors have for their centre of radiation the constellation Perseus, which at that time of the year is seen rising in the northeast in the evening, getting pretty well up between 10 and 11 o'clock.

It is a bending row of stars in the Milky Way, and below it, near the horizon, you will notice the brilliant Capella. If you watch the direction of flight of each meteor seen you will find that it can be extended back to Perseus, no matter what its course across the sky may be.

That constellation, therefore, forms a common meeting point for all the meteor tracks of that particular shower. If a number of the meteors happen to be visible nearly at the same time, the radiating appearance presented by their tracks is very conspicuous and striking.

It arises from the fact that the meteors are approaching the earth in a stream, all following parallel tracks, and the general direction or axis of these tracks lies toward the constellation Perseus.

As they plunge into the earth's atmosphere, and are set ablaze by the heat of friction, they seem to mark fiery lines, which by the law of perspective, spread around from the central axis of the stream in every direction, something like the ribs of an open umbrella.

Cannot Predict

You must not expect, however, to see a great number, or to have more than one or two visible at a time. Nobody can predict just what the display will be in any particular year.

Sometimes many will be counted in a few minutes, and at other times there may appear only a dozen or so in an hour. Always note their tracks so that you can enter them on a star chart.

You will also see from time to time sporadic meteors, which seem not to belong to any shower or system. Best of all, if you are fortunate, you may see on any night, a fireball, or meteoric, which, if a large and bright one, will give you a new sensation. Its course should be carefully noted with reference to the stars, and you should also record the hour and minute, and as nearly as possible the duration of visibility, together with any such incidents as an explosion, the formation of a luminous trail, the appearance of a brilliant color, etc.

Do not fail to note the geographical place of observation, to aid in connection with the observations of others, the calculation of the height, speed and probable place of fall of the meteorite.

ON "GETTING IDEAS"

When SOME MEN get IDEAS in business,
They are VERY FUNNY.
USUALLY they are as ELATED and PUZZLED
As though they had
HAD TWINS.
OTHER men who LIVE
By GIVING BIRTH TO NEW IDEAS,
Take them for granted,
But A MAN who
Only gets AN IDEA
OCCASIONALLY is
The one to WATCH.
Many a man who
Is a GOOD SORT,
Is NOT a good SPORT,
For when it comes
To SELLING his ideas,
He is AFRAID to show
More than a QUARTER of
It. Then he blames OTHERS
For NOT SEEING its WHOLE value.
Of course, MANY a
Man has had his ideas
STOLEN or betrayed, but WHAT OF IT? If they Came out of HIS OWN
BRAIN there MUST be
More to follow, IF he Doesn't LOSE his MIND.
